Need for Codes Hampers Renewal

BY LES RICKEY

The adoption of several codes, including a building code, by borough council is the primary stumbling block to Warren's urban renewal program.

The Redevelopment Authority, meeting last night at the county courthouse, said it has until June 11 to have its "workable program" recertified.

The federal government has made passage of the codes a requirement for recertification. In addition to a building code, the federal offices for urban renewal require wiring, electrical, plumbing and zoning ordinances that meet its specifications.

Republican Candidates Questioned

Ten of the 11 announced Republican candidates for the office of county commissioner, after briefly outlining their qualifications for the post, faced a barrage of questions last night.

Speaking at a "Meet the Candidates" night sponsored by the Warren County Council of Republican Women were the incumbents, D.H. Lay and Blain M. Mead; James Blomquist, Ralph Brasington, James Marshall, Ellis Martin, Dr. David K. Rice, John Teconchuk, Tony Tomassoni and W. Robert Walsh. Major Myron Kirberger was unable to attend due to illness.

There appeared to be a general area of agreement in regard to a recommendation by Monday's grand jury that four lay persons be named to an advisory board to assist in administration of affairs at the Hoffman Children's Home. The county commissioners serve as trustees of the Hoffman estate in addition to other duties. It was also suggested the same arrangement be considered relative to the Rouse Home.

Considerable discussion ensued as to the regional airport with the general feeling expressed by the new aspirants that more study should have been given before committing the county to its $51,000 share. Some, however, went along with the present board of commissioners, who voted two to one to participate on a regional authority.

All candidates pledged full time to the job of handling the county's more than a million dollar business and a majority when questioned as to the proposed constitutional amendments, were reluctant to do away with the justice of peace system at least as far as Warren.

AFTRA Support Growing From Varied Specialists

By ARTHUR EVERETT
NEW YORK (AP) — The American Federation of Television and Radio Artists won growing support yesterday for their nine-day strike against the three big networks—from such behind-the-scenes specialists as cameramen sound engineers and even the motorcycle messengers who rush films between studios.

Management personnel were pushed into many of the vacant posts at NBC, CBS and ABC. But their inexperience was reflected on television screens, where sound wavered, pictures blurred and cameras were misdirected.

No peace talks were in prospect. At ABC, even press agents walked out briefly. At CBS an official said: "About all we've got left is engineers."

NBC apologized for spotty television transmission, but later reported: "After some initial start-up problems technical operations have substantially improved and are continuing to run smoothly."

As hundreds of technicians from their unions walked out in sympathy with AFTRA's 18,000 striking performers, network studios from coast to coast faced the prospect of a drying-up of live shows and an increasing dependence on reruns of old programs.

"We'll have them rerunning reruns soon," declared a union leader. Newscasts by stand-in network officials continued but live news coverage was being reduced, including network staffing of President Johnson's scheduled visit next week to Uruguay.

AFTRA struck the networks March 29, demanding a $325 a week base salary for slightly more than 100 newscasters plus an increased share of sponsors' fees for their programs.

The networks claimed, however, that the real issue behind the strike was what they called featherbedding—such as a demand for the assignment of three New York staff announcers to cover an FM radio assignment of only two hours a week.

AFTRA picket lines were augmented in New York, Chicago, Los Angeles and Washington as hundreds of other industry unionists left their jobs in sympathy with the strikers.

Included were members of unions covering television cameramen and engineers, film editors, off-the-air news writers, motorcycle couriers, outside film cameramen, and radio directors.

OTHER UNION'S RESPECT AFTRA PICKETS

An ABC network cameraman talks to American Federation of TV and Radio Artist pickets, Bill Stout (a CBS newscaster) and an NBC newscaster (at right) as striking members of the union picketed Los Angeles City Hall Wednesday. The union was protesting use of network management personnel to report Mayor Samuel Yorty's regular weekly press conference. Later in the day International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees, the cameramen's union, announced that they will no longer cross AFTRA picket lines. (See Story B-6)

Kidnapped Youth Brings $250,000 Cash Ransom

By MIKE FORRESTER

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — A financier's son, kidnapped from his bedroom early Monday, was returned unharmed to his family yesterday after his father delivered a $250,000 ransom in an eerie roadside meeting.

The boy, Kenneth Young, 11, drowsy from sleeping pills but without tears, was left bound and blindfolded by bandages in a car parked in a garage in nearby Santa Monica. He obeyed instructions to wait 30 minutes, then freed himself and went for help to an apartment, where he telephoned his father. "Hi Dad," he said. "I'm all right. Come and get me."

The father, Herbert J. Young, 35-year-old president of the Gibraltar Savings and Loan Assn., drove his Cadillac to the Santa Monica apartment with FBI agents and police.

Kenneth was questioned and put to bed after a thorough physical examination. A family doctor said, "He's fine."

However, his dark hair had been shaved by his abductors so that the blindfold would fit snugly. Young paid the ransom in $100 bills last night, following instructions contained in a typewritten note found on the boy's bed Monday morning. The FBI said it had issued a list of the serial numbers of all the bills. There had been no further communication from the abductors.

Young said he received six telephone calls Monday, but that each time there was only silence at the other end.

The note warned Young not to call police or "the merchandise will be vindictively destroyed." More than 300 FBI agents were marshaled into the search for the kidnapers. FBI director J. Edgar Hoover said in Washington that the bureau's full resources have been turned over to the case.

Three FBI agents and one Beverly Hills police officer had remained at the Young residence since the boy's disappearance.

There was no sign that the abductor had forced his way into the home, sequestered in a fashionable neighborhood amid tall pine trees and bushy shrubbery.

NECESSARY FOR UNDERSTANDING

Urban Renewal Words to Know

Urban renewal is one of the most complicated and confusing programs to hit the local level since Congress passed the Social Security law in 1933.

One of the major reasons is the language, in which single words, sets of words connote the concepts of entire books. This has confused government officials, frustrated reporters, and left the general public befuddled for years.

The following is a simplified glossary, by no means official, of the most common words used in urban renewal.

WORKABLE PROGRAM—The foundation of all urban renewal programs which sets forth the tools with which urban renewal agencies can work. It is, in effect, the nuts and bolts that hold the entire structure together. The workable program is the most important single part of an urban renewal project, in the federal agency's eyes, because it paves the way for the complicated legal and technical work involved in actually acquiring buildings and revamping properties. The program is first certified for one year, and then is supposed to be recertified before any other step can be taken. Only survey and planning can be done without it, unless—as in Warren's case with the Liberty street project—a waiver is granted for Part I.

SURVEY & PLANNING—The first step of urban renewal. An area needing redevelopment is cut apart on graphs, colored markers show that exists there and what can exist there, and the need for the redevelopment is established. To fund Survey and Planning, the federal government loans the local agency the finances, which are paid back from the urban renewal loan and grant, made after the workable program and Part I and Part II of the each project is completed.

PART I—The first stages of any project. It involves dissection of an area into costs, projected uses, and solution of problems. This is done on paper.

PART II—The actual acquisition of the property and the development of it. It deals with buying the property, selling the property and relocating that which is dislocated by the project. This, too, is done on paper.

The sequence, all done on paper, is survey and planning, workable program, Part I and Part II. Then comes actual redevelopment, providing the federal agency has approved all of the above and set aside the necessary finances for the local agency's use.

Clarendon Will Continue Study To Obtain Help

Clarendon Municipal Authority members discussed obtaining federal and state aid for a new sewerage system Monday night. They were told no grants are available at this time, according to Thomas Dorrien, authority spokesman.

Dorrien said Henry Fisher of Singer, Deane & Scribner, a Pittsburgh Securities firm, told the authority of the lack of grants.

Dorrien said, "We will continue with studies on the feasibility of treating sewage in Clarendon Borough and the portion of Mead Twp. involved."

All authority meetings are open to the public, said Dorrien. He urged the public to attend.

The abductor apparently climbed 18 steps of an outside staircase to a small balcony outside the boy's bedroom. The stairway led from the patio and swimming pool behind the two-story house.

The room's sliding glass doors were opened when the note was found. There was no indication of a struggle.

Young and his wife, Arline, were asleep when the boy was taken. The couple's other three children, Jeffrey, 13; Gregory, 6, and an adopted daughter, Cathy, 3, were sleeping in other bedrooms.

Young heads an organization with assets of $423.5 million.

TEST SITE IS GOLD MINE

Light Speed Experiment Readied

(C) N.Y. Times News Service
BOULDER, Colo.—Scientists here have gone underground to measure the speed of light.

In Poor Man's Relief, an abandoned gold mine, they hope to measure this basic constant of nature with 10 times more accuracy than has hitherto been possible.

Experiments in recent years, particularly those at Britain's National Physical Laboratory, have shown that the speed of light is roughly 186,312.01 miles per second. The uncertainty, however, represents possible errors of several miles in deriving distance from the time required for a radar pulse to echo off a nearby planet.

Many earthbound measurements have been made to refine the estimates. Because the speed of light is slightly altered when it passes through material, including air, it has been necessary to shine light beams down long tubes from which the air has been evacuated. Long path lengths could be achieved by using mirrors to shine the light back and forth along the tube many times.

The experiment in preparation here is based on the fact that the relationship between frequency and wave lengths in all electromagnetic radiation is determined by the speed of light.

The waves can be likened to marching soldiers. The shorter the steps taken, the faster the cadence of the marching. The length of the step (wave length) equals the speed of light divided by the cadence (frequency).

If the wave lengths of a certain form of light could be determined with extreme accuracy and if this could also be done for its frequency, the speed of light could be calculated with new precision.

This is the essence of the experiment in Poor Man's Relief. However, instead of making the calculation from the absolute wave length and frequency of a single form of light, the experimenters are using two closely spaced wave lengths, generated by a specially built laser.

The ratios of the paired wave lengths and frequencies can be used for the calculation. The laser is a device that normally produces a narrow, intense beam of light whose waves are like a column of soldiers all in step with one another and all marching to the same cadence. In this case a neon laser generates two wave trains, that is, soldiers marching in two cadences. At certain intervals along the column the two cadences must come into phase with one another. There all the soldiers are in step.

By the wave matching technique known as interferometry it is possible to vary the length of the airless tube until the mirror at its far end is at one of these in-step positions. This will reveal the wave length ratio. The tube is almost a hundred feet long.

The experiment is being done deep within the front range of the Rockies to avoid traffic vibration or temperature changes that might upset the experiment. Although almost all the equipment is in place, the experimenters believe a year of trial and adjustment may be needed before they begin to get solid results.

The experiment is being carried out by Drs. John L. Hall and Peter L. Bender of the National Bureau of Standards, working as fellows of the Joint Institute for Laboratory Astrophysics at the University of Colorado.

RAILROAD STATION TO BECOME FOREST MUSEUM

Individuals, Groups Found Sheffield Forestry Museum

A Forest Industries Historical Museum has been established at Sheffield and will be incorporated as a non-profit organization.

The idea of a forest industries museum has been discussed for a number of years in this region. Sheffield, with its long history of Forester William Rusin, who some months ago joined the staff of the Sheffield National Forest, and the public spirited generosity of Wendell McMillen, president of the McMillen Lumber Company of Sheffield, the dream is now a reality.

Upon coming to Sheffield, Rusin became aware of the long history of lumbering in the Sheffield area. He found instant encouragement and cooperation from many local people who had for some years explored the idea of such a museum.

The Sheffield Chamber of Commerce backed the project. It appeared the historic Tionesta Valley Railroad station would be ideal to house such a museum. McMillen is generously donating the building to the community for this purpose. This action was predicated upon the willingness of the Pennsylvania Railroad Co., on whose right-of-way the building stands, to transfer the lease to the land to the museum. This final hurdle was removed last week with approval from the PRR.

On March 30, the Forest Industries Historical Museum was formally organized. Attorney David Swanson is preparing papers to present to the Warren County Court to charter the non-profit corporation. Rusin was unanimously elected curator of the new museum.

Bruce Smith, eminent historian, member of Sheffield High School faculty and author of "Historical Collections of Sheffield Township," was elected president; Tom Curtin, vice president; Laurence Stotz, secretary; Erv Rader, treasurer; and Franklin Hoff, director of public relations.

The board of directors, who are incorporators of the Forest Industries Historical Museum, include: McMillen, Rusin, Smith, Stotz, Rader, Swanson, Curtin, Eugene Leseman, Donald Lang, Frank Handey-side, Donald Brooks, Don Neal, Ernest Miller and Hoff. Other names may be added.

Already many valuable articles relating to early history of the region, particularly to lumbering, and forest industries, have been offered to the new museum. It will include a photographic history in its archives.

Newly formed Explorer Post 53, sponsored by the U.S. Forest Service, of which Stotz is leader and Rusin advisor, has volunteered to assist in preparing the railroad station building for its new role as a museum, and arranging the various displays it will feature.

New York Thruway Repairs Underway

ALBANY, N.Y. — Thruway authorities announced yesterday that an 18-mile stretch of the New York State Thruway in Chautauque County from Dunkirk to Ripley will be closed for seven months to west-bound traffic.

Deterioration due to bad weather necessitates that the entire westbound lane be completely rebuilt at an estimated cost of $2.3 million.

R. Burdell Bixby, chairman of the Thruway Authority, indicated that the construction will begin in May and is scheduled

Falconer Youth To Appear Today At City Court

JAMESTOWN — Richard Steck, 17, of 116 East Falconer st., Falconer, is scheduled to appear in City Court this morning to answer to three charges following his arrest by city police last night at the corner of Third and Spring sts.

Steck is accused of third degree assault, disorderly conduct and resisting arrest.

According to investigators, Steck was beating a young girl and when a passing motorist attempted to aid the girl he also attacked the motorist. Police report that Steck also fought with officers attempting to take him into custody.

Jamestown police records reveal that Steck was charged last November with the theft of a safe at Ring School on Buffalo st. and was charged with another third degree burglary in mid-January.

The disposition of the charges was not made public. The Falconer youth also has two misdemeanor charges pending against him in Jamestown City Court.

to be completed by Dec. 15. In making the announcement, Bixby noted that the Thruway opened in August, 1957, but that frequent cycles of freezing and thawing have caused severe damage to the road surface.

He noted that no fault should be laid to the contractors who constructed the superhighway.

During the construction period, westbound traffic will be diverted from the thruway at Dunkirk, where motorists can take either Route 5 or Route 20 west and can get back on the thruway again at Shortman rd. in the Town of Ripley.

Travelers entering New York State from Pennsylvania will be shunted from the normal east-bound section into the west-bound section between Stateline and Dunkirk.

Westbound tandem trailer units must exit at Dunkirk and be broken up into regular tractor-trailer units to complete their westward trips.

The thruway official also said crossovers will be provided to permit entrance and exit at the Westfield interchange, but that the only entry of traffic during construction will be eastbound traffic, which will be diverted to the westbound lane.

The Rugged Individual

A young man lived with his parents in a public housing development. He attended public school, rode the free school bus, participated in the free lunch program, played in State Parks, swam in the city pool. He entered the army and upon discharge kept his national life insurance. He then enrolled in the state university, working part time in the State Capitol to supplement his G.I. check.

Upon graduation he married a public health nurse, and bought a farm with an FHA loan, and then obtained a Small Business Administration loan to go into business. A baby was born in the County Hospital. He bought a ranch with the aid of another G.I. loan and obtained emergency feed from the government.

Later he put part of his land into the Soil Bank. His parents live comfortably on the ranch with their social security and old age assistance checks. REA lines supply electricity. The Department of Agriculture helped clear the land. The County Agent showed him how to terrace it. Then the government paid part of the cost of a pond and stocked it with fish. He was guaranteed a sale for his farm products by a Federal Agency. Books from the public library were delivered to his door. He banked money which a government agency insured.

Then one day he wrote his Congressman: "I wish to protest excessive government spending and high taxes. I believe in rugged individualism. I am opposed to all socialistic trends and I demand a return to the principles of our Constitution."—Reprinted from Lowell, Mass. Council "Sales Talk"

Use of CIA Funds in South

WASHINGTON — It will be vociferously denied, but some of the South's most vocal opponents of civil rights have either overlooked or sanctioned under the able CIA aid to help Negro voting registration and militant civil rights groups.

The CIA money was funneled through private foundations right under the nose of the Central Intelligence Watchdog Committee headed by Sen. Dick Russell, Georgia Democrat, and Rep. Mendel Rivers, the South Carolina Democrat. Both have made speeches and led filibusters denouncing the civil rights movement. Yet they permitted CIA funds to go to civil rights groups in the same manner that CIA money went to student groups.

The disclosure emphasizes the importance of the drive led by Sen. Eugene McCarthy, D-Minn., and Sen. William Fulbright, D-Ark., to put members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on the CIA Watchdog group, now composed solely of members from the House and Senate Armed Services Committee. This drive was defeated last fall when Russell emphatically proclaimed that his committee knew what CIA was doing. Obviously it didn't.

On the Watchdog Committee, in addition to Russell and Rivers, are such Southern stalwarts as John Stennis, D-Miss., Sam Ervin, D-N.C., and Strom Thurmond, R-S.C.; together with O.C. Fisher, Tex., Elliott Hagan, Ga., and Alton Lennon, N.C. — All Democrats.

The main conduit for CIA money to help the Negro voter registration drive was the Southern Regional Council, which received $60,000 of CIA funds in 1963. The money was channeled through the New World Foundation.

In 1962, $6,000 of CIA funds went to the Southern Regional Council through the Aaron E. Norman Fund. In 1962, the Georgia Council on Human Relations also got $2,600 of CIA money from the Norman fund.

The National Student Association, which received massive contributions of CIA money, was also encouraged by the CIA to push voter registration drives in the South.

Justification for using CIA funds was to quiet disastrous foreign publicity caused by civil rights violence.

The Norman Fund, incidentally, has also contributed to CORE's scholarship and educational fund, the Lawyers' Constitutional Defense Committee, and the League for Industrial Democracy, all vigorous civil rights advocates.

Note: Fund officials deny any knowledge of CIA financial ties; nevertheless they are a fact.

On Which Side of the Fence

HARRISBURG — Reporter's Notebook: LEGISLATIVE MATHEMATICS — When it comes to figuring progress (or lack of it) it seems to depend upon whether you're using the so-called new math or old math system, or perhaps more pointedly, on which side of the partisan fence you're figuring!

The point was somewhat succinctly illustrated this week when lawmakers returned for their first day of session following their two-week Easter recess. . . . On opening day, Monday, they had before them a compilation by the Administration of the legislative box score to date — as viewed by the Governor's Office.

The Administration legislative program, according to the box score tabulation, showed that legislation had been introduced (by Administration legislative forces) on 26 different subjects, of which nine had gained final passage of both House and Senate. Four bills were "in transit" — that is, out of committee and up for floor action, while 13 pieces remained in committee.

The same Monday House Democratic floor leader Herbert Fineman took to the House floor and in an ear-splitting mood chastized the Administration by declaring (among other things) that "of 167 promises, only 15 actual Administration bills have been introduced" . . . The Democratic box score showed 13 of these bills still in committee, with only two classified as Administration bills on the "passed" list.

In theory, both box scores are right to certain degree. As in the case of any statistical juggling, it depends on "how" you look at it, or perhaps more pointedly expressed — what the partisan view prefers to see!

BUREAUCRATIC D E A D L I N E S — One of the standing jokes around Capitol Hill (and this has been the case over the years) is the establishment of "deadlines" by state government departments and agencies — and the constant weaseling out of the deadlines in the interests, of course, of establishing "political good face."

Most pointed, timely and chronic weaseler on this score is the Department of Revenue when it comes to meeting the motor vehicle registration deadline — which in the present case was this past March 31. . . . Did the deadline hold? Of course not! Three days prior thereto Secretary of Revenue Warner Deputy announced a ten-day extension to midnight, April 10. Mumbled Mr. Deputy in suggesting the deadline extension to Governor Shafer: of a potential 4,200,000 license renewals, 3,900,000 renewals have been issued, leaving about 300,000 to receive and issue.

So what? If 3,900,000 can go to the trouble of making the deadline, why make an exception for the remaining 300,000 — or next year why not all join the 3,900,000 and ignore the deadline, which it is clearly evident now isn't a deadline at all!

Isn't it amazing how the (non-political) Internal Revenue Service establishes an April 15 income tax filing deadline — and sticks to it!

ARTS VERSUS ARTZ — Make no mistake about it, Pennsylvania's new Council on the Arts is in business!

Organized in Harrisburg recently, the statewide group of prominent Pennsylvanians authorized its executive director to proceed with an experimental survey to provide guidelines for statewide action along artistic and cultural lines, including the entire spectrum of cultural endeavors — music, theater, dance, painting, sculpture, architecture, "and all related arts and crafts".

Oh yes — the name of the council's executive director? Why, of course, it's Mr. "Artz" — Vincent R. Artz, that is. (There art no art like art)

JIM BISHOP Spring Is Always Late

And now, the first thin, reedy notes of Spring. The beautiful have a right to be late. Pussy willows, as soft as the cheek of a mouse, crouch in trees, watching. Forsythia, a canary-colored geyser, bubbles over the lawn. Those exotic wine glasses, the many, stand stiffly on their stems in nature's breakfront. The fresh wind scrubs the sky. Spring is a tease. It's a lady who kicks the bedspread of snow off a little at a time. Sometimes, she pulls it back up again. She cannot be enticed, coaxed or commanded. When, at last, she is ready, Spring appears—the youngest and most beautiful of the seasons.

She intoxicates all men and all things. In the young, the heart speeds and the mind slows. The dead leaves of last year's roses clap their hands against a fence and a young worm puts his perspective up. A male hornet begins the long task of building an adobe hacienda under a garage roof.

In an elm tree, a robin does a soft-shoe routine along a sturdy branch before signing a lease for the whole summer. Canadian geese pause in a pond to refuel before flying the next leg home. A lacy willow gives birth to a million chartruese buds. A colt in a corral feels warm rain glistening on his coat and pretends fright, running to his mother.

Walking a field, a little boy sees everything and notices nothing. The earth is foam rubber under his shoes; a wild onion crooks a finger at him; the grass is greener and bare black oaks become veins on the fleecy clouds. Hidden in red clay banks, a brook toboggans over smooth stones on its way to a river. In the glade, a young deer becomes a statue of innocent timidity.

A laurel of Boston ivy makes love to a For Sale sign. The masochistic mint gives no pleasure unless it is crushed. Pale blue powder-puff of hydrangea wait to caress a soft cheek. The velvet faces of pansies shiver in the cool breeze. The church chimes of Lily-of-the-Valley play a carillon no man hears.

The inscrutable Oriental wisteria will wait a while longer before committing itself. A shish kebap of snapdragon is served on a flaming sword. Susans with black eyes would rather fight than switch. Storm windows begin to come down. Ice skates dangle from an attic rafter. The first house fly comes in for a landing on the dining-room table. A thermostat comes down a peg and a window is opened. In the west, a crack of thunder rolls down the howling alley and the heavens flick their flash bulbs.

The soil gulps rain and a bony farmer, looking like one of his scarecrows, shifts the black soil between his fingers. Culverts of snowlinger in the high places, but a symphony of birds warble the music of Spring. A big brother of a sun comes up red over a pale blue sea, tossing warm confetti in a straight path.

Morning wood smoke is kind to the nose, and a barn is aromatic with dry hay. The curved snowplow, the safety razor blade of winter, picks up a russet of rust. Drapes come down, cornices are dusted, rugs have their scalps shampooed, sanitized walls are washed, and women purse their lips to blow the hair from their eyes. It is a season of dinner-time headaches.

To a chubby baby in a stroller, it's a bright sky and insufficient attention. To an old lady at a window, it's a heavy heart of memories. To a sapling of a girl, it's a floppy hat and an appraising stare. To a father, it's a number of pairs of shoes, suits and dresses, not counting repair jobs on swings and slides. To a boy, it's a glove, a bat and a top-of-the-lungs argument about the Yankees.

It's the outside of a candy store, a fresh geranium beside a headstone, a covey of children at top speed in a schoolyard, a pocketful of marbles, and a kite carrying someone's dreams into an azure sky. It's muddy water lugging a curb, the anemic pink of early tomatoes, an insolent wind tugging at hemlines, a rainbow trout doing a half gainer.

The herring-bone sky picks up the peach and slate blue of the evening sun, and an early star winks blue across eternity. At night, the young daisies outnumber the stars, but no one sees them. It is a season when old bark peels from trees and young shoots face life brazenly. Spring is always a warm and gracious lady. And always late. . .

On 'Death of a President'

By William Manchester (Harper and Row, Publishers)

By the time I had worked my way through this fascinating, endless and very readable book I found myself wondering whether I had stayed with it so long mainly because of a prying and morbid curiosity.

The book embroiders with a prodigious amount of detail the well-known story of the six days before and after the assassination of John F. Kennedy. If historians handle it critically enough they will no doubt find here a mine of information about the circumstances of the President's death. For Manchester has interviewed a great number of people involved in the event.

But as a contemporary, as one who sat glued to his television set and read the news and speculation in the newspapers, I cannot think of anything in this book that throws new light on what happened. To read the book is like scanning a painting with a microscope. It remains the same painting after the scanning is over. The President went to Texas in order to compose a quarrel among Democratic politicians, hoping to unite the party behind himself for the election of 1964.

The city of Dallas was a hotbed of seething hatred of Mr. Kennedy. The police protection afforded the President was poor. On the way back to Washington from Dallas a feud broke out between those who felt that their first and only loyalty was to Mr. Kennedy and those who were attached to Mr. Johnson or rallied to him. The book tells again what we saw with our own eyes, Jack Ruby killing Lee Oswald, the regal bearing of Jacqueline Kennedy and the pomp and ceremony of the funeral.

The painstaking reporting after the event confirms and amplifies the original story that we all saw and heard at the time. The book makes us realize how well the country was served in those days by the newspapers and the networks, and we are left to wonder what American journalism could be if it were always as interested and as concentrated on the task of telling the true story as it was in those days.

But if the spot reporters failed to tell the whole story, if there are hidden secrets, they are still hidden now. For Manchester takes the view that the findings of the Warren Commission, to which he had special access, are the whole truth. For him, the death of the President cannot be a link in a chain of significant historic events. It was a meaningless accident perpetrated for no known reason by a trivial and disordered man.

This is the crucial judgment about the subject of the book, and it has determined the character of the book. Unqualified acceptance of the findings of the Warren Commission set Manchester to the task of describing in relentless detail what happened during the six days when a quite senseless and meaningless crime was committed. Manchester is aware that the senselessness of the murder deprives his book of a significant theme. "I have to believe," he wrote in Look magazine recently, "that the state funeral of Nov. 25 and the wake which followed were a REDEMPTION, a CATHARSIS, investing the ghastly futility that had gone before with meaning."

He goes on to say that "Maybe that craving for significance is a weakness. Possibly Sartre was right. Perhaps it was all an existentialist performance in the theater of the absurd."

This craving to find significance in the ghastly futility of the murder is the reason why so many people throughout the world have been eager to believe that the Warren Commission was wrong, that John Kennedy was the victim of a conspiracy. For the official verdict has been a hard one to believe, because Oswald was killed in the police station. With the human craving for significance, men have seized upon the patent incredibility of the senseless event.

For Manchester this way out of the ghastly futility was harnessed when he accepted the findings of the Warren Commission. He knows a great deal about the Warren Commission's work, perhaps more than anyone else, and he has written a highly persuasive defense of the commission's verdict.

He did not, therefore, turn to a theory of conspiracy to find significance in the ghastly futility. And he is not a poet who could have made the senseless death of John F. Kennedy the burden of a charge against the wantonness and cruelty of fate.

What then could Manchester do? He obeyed his own genius, which is not that of an historian, but of a dramatic novelist. He is also a reporter, and as a reporter he had to agree that the murder was a ghastly futility. As a literary artist, however, he was compelled to reshape the material to a main theme and several minor ones.

The main theme, he chose to believe, is that John F. Kennedy was transfigured by his death and thereby became a legendary hero. In the epilogue, which he tells us he meant to make his best chapter, Manchester becomes so enchanted with the theme of the transfiguration that he does not place John F. Kennedy with the Presidents of the United States. He places him in a line with King Arthur, Siegfried, Roland and Joan of Arc.

At the end, Manchester's craving for significance has become so exorbitant that he seems to be saying that the genesis of a modern legend, like the legend of Lincoln, is that the hero was murdered, rather than in what the hero achieved. But surely a modern historian must not forget that Lincoln became fixed in the minds and hearts of our people not because he was murdered in Ford's Theatre, but because he saved the Union and emancipated the slaves.

The Kennedy legend will flourish or will languish because of what Mr. Kennedy did, because of what he left behind him that endures. The historic foundation of a Kennedy legend will be that with him the generation born in the 20th century came to power and that under him there were new beginnings in the life of the nation.

In the bypassing of the substance and the significance of John Kennedy's work as President lies the root of all the troubles that this book has caused everybody involved with it, the family, the publishers, the author. In thinking about how Manchester wrote a six-hundred-page book on the death of the President without writing about what John F. Kennedy did as a President, I learned something from reading Manchester's earlier "Portrait of a President."

That book was, so to speak, a sketch from life, and it is said that because President Kennedy liked the book, Pierre Salinger proposed Manchester to the Kennedy family as the author to write the story of the President's death.

Like the present book, the earlier book is very readable and full of entertaining detail. But reading it one would never understand how the wry, witty rich Boston Irishman with his beautiful and fashionable wife was the man who played a leading role in the turning point of the cold war, who opened the way—not himself understanding it too well—to the new economics, who gave a mighty push to the second reconstruction and drew into office a new generation of public men.

It goes without saying that in the attempt to tell the whole story as if it were a complete and ubiquitous newsreel of those six days, Manchester has slipped up and made some mistakes. I would not dwell on them here were it not that in the mistakes I know about there is the same pattern: always the mistake is a fiction which intensifies the drama of the story.

The first mistake is of no importance, but I noticed it because it is about myself. Manchester was telling where various people were and what they did when they heard the news of the murder. According to Manchester, "I reached the Washington Post, heard that the President was in the hospital, but still alive, thought the crowd was too noisy around the tickers and the television sets and rushed for a taxi to go home to hear the rest of the news. In the taxi on the radio I heard that the President was dead. The mistake is of no importance except that the truth is much less dramatic than the fiction."

The second mistake concerns that excellent soldier, Gen. Clifton. According to the first Manchester version, which has since been corrected, Gen. Clifton lost his head and, forgetting his sense of duty, first telephoned a message to his wife before he telephoned about security matters which were his special charge. The story was not true at all, but the spectacle of a gallant and efficient soldier losing his head made it a better story than the prosaic facts.

The third mistake is that at the swearing in of Lyndon Johnson aboard the airplane the ceremony was boycotted by the Kennedy men who were on the plane. The story is not true. Lawrence O'Brien and Ken O'Donnell were present, though their faces do not show in all of the photographs. O'Brien was hidden by Judge Hughes who was swearing in President Johnson. O'Donnell was to the left of Mrs. Kennedy and was not caught in all the photographs. Again the mistake is one which heats up the truth and intensifies the drama.

Mistakes of this sort can and no doubt will be corrected. In spite of them the book remains a dedicated effort to tell with relentless detail the story of the six days of the murder. But in telling of it Manchester has become so obsessed by a passion for detail that his book is pervaded by a dumb and ruthless realism which engulfs the hero.

Only when I read the whole book in all its appalling detail did I feel I understood why Mrs. Kennedy was so revolted by it and denounced it as tasteless. I cannot believe that her revulsion was due solely to the passages she cited as especially objectionable to her, personally. Those passages have been deleted, and I have not seen them or wanted to see them. But I have a fair notion of what they were like.

They were not scandalous. There was no hint of malice or prejudice in them. There is no break in Manchester's love and admiration for Jacqueline Kennedy. But the objectionable passages did make sharper the dominant fault of the whole book. For the family and intimate friends of John F. Kennedy, the book stains the white radiance of eternity in which John F. Kennedy dwells.

The trouble is that the book as a whole shows in horrid and painful detail the mean and sordid reality in which the epic story of the hero's death was enacted. That the death of the young and brilliant President was senseless was an intolerable event; it was bearable only if it was extricated from the muck in which it in fact took place.

It was terrible that the President was dead. It was injury added to injury that the hero was on a trivial mission among inglorious Texas politicians. For the Kennedy family, to have brought Camelot down to this has been Manchester's transgression.

As the story develops in Manchester's pages it has neither elegance nor grandeur, and the author's gluttonous appetite for anecdotes does not spare the family or the reader the horror of the carnage inside the automobile, the insufferable insensitiveness of the clowns and mountebanks and louts at the Dallas hospital or the macabre details of the autopsy at Bethesda and of the undertakers' work. Thus, the search for the significance of the senseless death wallows on in a flood of noisome detail.

It is no service to John Kennedy's reputation, historic or legendary, to put together an infinite number of tidbits and to dwell not on his historic achievements, but on the glamour that emanated from him and his family and on the trivial facts surrounding his murder. For this belongs to what the French call "petite histoire," the little stories that are the small change of history.

SYLVIA PORTER

Fight Against Recession

Never before has Federal Government policy been geared as it is today to preventing a threatened recession from becoming reality. Never before have so many stimulating actions been taken so early in an economic slowdown to reverse the slow-down before it leads to stall and slump.

Never before has the Federal Reserve System moved so aggressively in advance of a widespread business decline to make credit easier to get, to force down borrowing costs, to spur consumer and business spending—and thereby to give new spark to our economic growth. What's more, never before have our Central Bank's governors been so eager to explain on the record as well as off the record what they are doing and why.

What we are witnessing right now is an unprecedented experiment in economic planning to revive a faltering expansion, and what's so extraordinary about it all is that the U.S. Government does not officially acknowledge the fear (much less the existence) of a recession. In fact, top officials shrug off the pessimists who say flatly that "the U.S. entered a recession in January," insist that the declines have neither gone far enough nor lasted long enough nor become general enough to warrant a "recession" label.

Most leading private economists also believe this is no more than a temporary "adjustment," liken this period to the slowdown of 1962 which led not to recession but to renewed upturn.

Nevertheless, there are significant weak spots. Industrial production has declined sharply, new orders for durable goods have had the biggest drop since 1957, layoffs have increased, the work week has shortened, and the rate of our overall economic growth has unquestionably leveled off.

Thus, while they're not saying this is a recession, both the Federal Government and the Federal Reserve Board are acting as though it were, and thus they are pulling out the anti-slump weapons. To give you a quick summary of what has been and is going on:

— The Federal Reserve System has been pumping credit into the banking system on a massive scale, providing banks with major amounts of funds to lend, giving them a clear signal to encourage borrowers again. Interest rates have been falling fast—so that it's not only easier but also considerably cheaper to borrow. After a prolonged period of "begging" for money at almost any price, you now can start bargaining for the cost of what you want.

— The 7 per cent investment tax credit has been restored to re-stimulate business spending for plants and equipment. This tax incentive should help revive spending programs running into the hundreds of millions of dollars as the year progresses.

— The Federal Government is speeding up its scheduled rate of spending. Billions of dollars "frozen" during 1966's fight against an overheated boom are being "unfrozen" for housing, highways, military bases.

— The depressed housing industry is a special target, and various moves are being made to channel funds directly into residential construction and to hasten the drop in mortgage rates.

— Hefty Social Security benefit hikes are to come at mid-year, with the knowledge that these added incomes will be spent immediately by the millions receiving them.

— The Veterans Bureau has accelerated payment of veterans' life insurance payments to put more money in the hands of average U.S. families.

— Millions of taxpayers are now getting or are in line for income tax refunds, as a result of tax rate changes made in 1966.

The results are emerging. Housing is definitely reviving and will rise more. Surveys of consumers reveal confidence is perking up—and assuming this is translated into less saving and more spending of today's record consumer incomes, our economy will get a big lift. The stock market's recovery clearly reflects the belief of investors that corporation profits are not heading for a demoralizing slide.

Vietnam could, of course, violently alter all predictions and projections, but war developments are unforeseeable. On the basis of what we can foresee, though, the odds are the stimulants will work and our economy will be on the uptick before 1967 ends.

The question soon be not the danger of recession but the precise timing and strength of the revived advance.

Nation Facing Severe Doctor, Nurse Shortage

The US faces a serious shortage of doctors and nurses, according to a federal Labor Department spokesman.

Herbert Bienstock, middle Atlantic regional director of the department's Bureau of Labor Statistics, said the US will need 6,400 more doctors and 8,000 more nurses each year than are now graduating.

He said that about 15,600 new physicians will be needed each year until 1975. Some 43,000 new nurses will be needed annually.

According to Labor Department figures, only 7,700 persons graduated from medical schools in 1965.

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Charges of conspiracy to extort money from racketeers were filed yesterday against three Pittsburgh police inspectors, three lieutenants, a former assistant superintendent of police and a one-time patrolman.

Announcing the charges at a news conference, Dist. Atty. Robert W. Dugan of Allegheny County said the men are accused of taking money from numbers lottery operators in exchange for protection from arrest.

The numbers men, according to the charges, also were promised "protection from other number lottery operators."

Those charged are: Lawrence J. Maloney, a former assistant superintendent, who is charged with bribery and extortion.

PANAMA (AP)—A record for traffic in a single month through the Panama Canal was established in March when 1,163 ocean-going vessels transited. The figure topped by 44 the previous high mark set in March 1965 and brought the daily average to an all-time high of 37.5 vessels of 300 net tons (as measured by Canal standards) and over.

Profit - Seeking College Loses Accreditation Rating

By DONALD JANSON

(c) N.Y. Times News Service
CHICAGO — Controversial Parsons College in Fairfield, Iowa, lost its accreditation yesterday.

The action was taken by the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools at the final session of its annual four-day meeting here.

The vote by delegates representing the agency's 500 member colleges, was unanimous.

Dr. Norman Burns, executive secretary of the association and professor of education at the University of Chicago, said the accrediting body had voted to drop Parsons from membership, effective June 30, because of its "persistent failure" to correct "serious weaknesses."

Parsons President Millard G. Roberts and all other executives of the college were unavailable for comment.

The agency had placed Parsons on probation in 1963, removing it in 1965 with the stipulation that the school be re-examined within three years to determine whether the association's standards for quality of education were being met.

In 1964 the Presbyterian Church cut off support for the liberal arts school, breaking a relationship that had prevailed since the college was founded in 1875. William A. Morrison, general secretary of the church's board of Christian education, cited "noncooperation" with the church. College spokesman indicated they no longer wanted to be restricted by church ties in operating the college.

Dr. Roberts, a former minister specializing in fund raising for the Brick Presbyterian Church in New York City, became president of Parsons in 1955 at the age of 37.

Since then Parsons has grown from a bankrupt campus with 212 students to a college with 4,700 students and a multi-million-dollar plant.

To attract top lecturers, Roberts has raised faculty salaries to a top of $39,000 and an average for ranked teachers that is exceeded only at Harvard and the University of Chicago.

His formula, sharply criticized in academic circles as placing the profit motive above quality education, also includes:

—Accepting any high school graduate, no matter what his grades. This includes students who have flunked out of other colleges, and has given Parsons national publicity as "flunk-out U."

—Charging relatively steep tuition. Roberts adopted the trimester system and required that students with poor grades remain in class throughout the year to make up deficiencies. For this, tuition had risen from $1,030 a decade ago to $3,480 last year. The system also kept dormitories and cafeterias full and profitable. Life Magazine, in an article last year entitled "The Wizard of Flunk-Out U," called Parsons a college "for rich dumb kids" who had little other choice.

—Slashing the curriculum. Dr. Roberts cut the number of courses offered from 782 to fewer than 200.

—Using "preceptors" and tutors for much of the teaching, thus keeping the ranked faculty of well-paid lecturers small.

nesses will be Clarence Cooper, a former patrolman now living in Florida and described in the charges as being one of the officers who collected money from lottery operators.

Dugan said the investigation will continue and "if the investigation warrants it, other charges will be filed."

Dugan declined to estimate how much money was involved.

Federal Reserve Lowers Rate Of Discount in 10 Districts

By JOSEPH R. COYNE

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Reserve Board approved unanimously yesterday the first decline in its discount rate in more than 6 1/2 years. The move, which could signal a dramatic easing of credit throughout the economy, was welcomed immediately by the administration.

The drop, from 4 1/2 to 4 per cent, is effective today in 10 of the 12 districts which make up the Federal Reserve System, the nation's central bank.

Only the Atlanta and St. Louis districts did not seek a drop in their rates yesterday. They are expected to follow suit soon.

A lowering in the discount rate usually means lower interest rates for businessmen who borrow money and consumers who purchase houses, automobiles, and other goods on the installment plan.

Spokesmen for the home building and savings and loan industries said earlier this week that a material lowering of home mortgage interest rates could result within 30 days if the Federal Reserve lowered its discount rate.

They based this on the general effect the lowering would have in the economy, since the board has no direct control over the savings and loan industry, the major lender of home mortgages.

The board said the action it took yesterday is in line with recent declines in market rates and in keeping with its policy objectives of assuring sufficient credit to provide for orderly economic growth.

The discount rate is the charge made by the Federal Reserve on funds borrowed by its member banks. Other interest rates are pegged upward from it.

New York Printers Threaten Long Meetings

(c) N.Y. Times News Service
NEW YORK — The printers threatened yesterday to lengthen their two-hour chapel meetings at the Daily News unless a new contract agreement is reached by Sunday night.

Bertram A. Powers, president of Typographical Local No. 6, announced the plans for extended chapel meetings shortly before going to a negotiating session with officials of the News and observers from the other four newspapers involved in the current dispute.

"Next Sunday night, if we're still in the plant, or we haven't got a conclusion, we'll begin three-hour meetings," Powers told printers in the composing room of the News.

Most of the chapel meetings, aimed at putting pressure on the News to settle, have lasted for two hours. All work in the composing room has stopped during the meetings, at which Powers or David W. Crockett, vice president of the union, has discussed the status of negotiations and answered questions.

W.H. James, executive vice president of the News, had no immediate comment regarding the printers' threat to interfere further with the operations and production of the paper.

On Wednesday F. M. Flynn, publisher of the News, issued a statement saying that there was "no doubt that the printers' chapel meetings are hurting the News." Fortunately, he said, the newspaper, the nation's largest, with a daily circulation of over 2,000,000, has been able to publish all major editions so far.

"But a prolonged continuation of these meetings," Flynn said, "would present severe problems. Many businesses and workers who depend on the News advertising will be harmed, as well as our regular readers." Negotiations continued yesterday.

Double Agent Tells Congress Of Soviet Spy Activities

By MARJORIE HUNTER
(c) N.Y. Times News Service
WASHINGTON — A double agent who pretended to spy for the Soviet Union while working for the Federal Bureau of Investigation told Congress yesterday that the Russians frequently warned him of danger by sticking chewing gum on his mailbox.
"For all anybody knew, that chewing gum could have been stuck there by a kid, but I knew what it meant," said John Humink, who lives in a suburb of Washington.
Humink, a 31-year-old American scientist and engineer, was the first witness called by a subcommittee of the House Un-American Activities Committee which has just received a $350,000 investigating budget.

227-Year-Old Bottle Of Wine Up for Sale

By EDDY GILMORE
LONDON (AP) — One of the oldest bottles of drinkable wine in the world is to be knocked down to the highest bidder next month, it was announced yesterday.
Owned by the Marquess of Linlithgow, the wine came from the Canary Islands and is 227 years old.
"It is the oldest drinkable wine I have ever seen anywhere," said Michael Broadbent, one of the few men in Britain who sport the title, "master of wine."
Asked how much the bottle—a magnum—would sell for when it is auctioned off at Christie's on May 31—Broadbent refused to speculate.
Said a Christie spokesman:
"Lord Linlithgow had three bottles of the 1740 Canary. He and his son, Lord Hope, drank one bottle and found it delicious. They decided to keep the second bottle and have sent the third to London, along with other fine and old wine, to be sold."
Broadbent said the reason the wine is in such superb condition is because of the excellence of the owner's cellar.
Charles William Frederick Hope, 55, is third marquess and 11th baronet of Linlithgow. His famous cellar is at his sumptuous Scottish home, castle-like Hopetown House, near South Queensferry.
Questioned as to why, after all these years, his lordship is finally drinking and selling this ancient wine, the spokesman said: "It's a very old family and a very old house. Perhaps they've just gotten around to it."

tee, Humink detailed his years as a double agent and displayed gifts that he said the Russians had given him: Midnight in Moscow perfume for his wife, an unopened bottle of vodka, picture calendars, little address books and diaries, an expensive gold watch and a camera with a tripod.
He told of clandestine meetings in fashionable restaurants, of contacts made through jottings in the yellow pages of directories in designated telephone booths, and of "dead drops" for the pick-up secret data.
He said that once he was to leave data beside a "no dumping" sign in a cleared area. Instead, he said, he left it beside a nearby sign in a briar patch so his Soviet contact "would get all scratched up."
Humink said that the Russians had first approached him in the fall of 1960 at a meeting of the Washington chapter of the American Society for Metals. He speculated they had singled him out because his father had been born in Russia.
At first, he said, the Soviet embassy officials "tested him" for several years, asking for simple information and showering him with gifts.
Then, he said, they asked him for application forms for U.S. employment, "presumably so they could get some key job for one of their men."
Humink said they also sought various technological data and that, under direction of the F.B.I., he passed along classified but altered government information on machines and chemicals.
"I kept stringing them along," he said. "But what they didn't know was they had picked the wrong guy."

SPRAWLING SATELLITE
The new Applications Technology Satellite (ATS), launched at Cape Kennedy late Wednesday is shown in these drawings. The 815-pound satellite will conduct a variety of scientific experiments in orbit. Once in space, the ATS will grow 123-foot "arms" called gravity gradient booms, which will give the satellite a record length of 251 feet. The satellite's gravity gradient system will keep its meteorological cameras aimed directly at the earth, using the same principle that keeps one side of the moon always facing earth. The bottom drawing shows how the ATS would appear with booms fully extended in its 6,900-mile-high orbit.

Humphrey Sees Anti-Vietnam Demonstration in Berlin

By HUBERT ERB
BERLIN (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey ran into big anti-Vietnam war demonstrations last night outside an old West Berlin castle and a modern skyscraper beside the Communist wall dividing the city.
Agitators hurling bags of flour and beer glasses sought to harass Humphrey after a day that saw him charm Berliners by reaffirming a U.S. pledge to defend their city.
The incidents occurred as Humphrey went from one reception to another under strong security guard following the arrest Wednesday of 10 young leftist extremists accused of plotting to attack him with explosives.
At least 16 persons were arrested last night, police reported after Humphrey returned to his hotel. He flies to Paris today for a meeting with President Charles de Gaulle as his two-week European fence-mending tour nears a close. He returns to Washington on Sunday.
About 600 persons demonstrated outside Charlottenburg Castle, where Humphrey was honored at a reception given by Mayor Heinrich Albertz. About 500 demonstrators turned out to heckle at the skyscraper during a later reception.
There were shouts of "Vice murderer!" and "Ho, Ho Chi Minh!"
After Humphrey entered the castle, scuffling broke out between those carrying pro-American signs and those shouting, "Murderer, Murderer, Murderer!"
Another demonstration met Humphrey as he arrived at a modern skyscraper overlooking the Communist wall for a reception given by a publisher for the German-U.S. Chamber of Commerce.
Humphrey went into the building without incident. But afterward beer glasses sailed out of the crowd of some 500 demonstrators, one landing near Humphrey's parked limousine.
Police waded in and took into custody at least 10 persons and moved to break up the crowd that persisted in its yelling and booing in a driving rain. Officers forced the crowd back behind barriers.
A Communist Vietnamese flag waved in the crowd and some demonstrators sang the Communist Internationale.
On his two-week tour of Western Europe, Humphrey has been dogged by demonstrations mainly aimed at U.S. policy in Vietnam.
At the opening of a busy day in the old German capital, he predicted that "One day Berlin will once more be the capital, the proud and glorious capital, of a reunited Germany in a safe and peaceful world."

Solemnly, Humphrey told the West Berlin parliament he brought a message from President Johnson renewing the pledge of America's commitment to the city 110 miles behind the iron curtain.
The Vice President leaves this morning for Paris, where police have been busy drawing up security plans against an expected wide-scale Communist-led demonstration.
Humphrey turned briefly to Vietnam in his city hall address.

He said the people of South Vietnam were struggling to maintain their integrity, and that free people know that the American commitment to freedom in one place "is no less a commitment to freedom in another place."
Referring to the West German goal of making West Berlin a bridge to Eastern Europe, Humphrey declared: "Your Berlin has a chance to play a large role in making the open door to the East a reality."
Police were still probing the alleged conspiracy by young leftists who they said planned attacks with explosives during the Humphrey visit.

German Police Holding Students

(c) N.Y. Times News Service
BERLIN — The West Berlin police are holding eight German students in custody on suspicion that they were plotting an attack on U.S. Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.
But their lawyer, Horst Mahler, said the detainees, mostly students at the Free University, were planning only to throw smoke bombs and plastic sacks containing flour, pudding powder and cream.
The youths are among a group of 11 members of the so-called "horror commune" of fans of the teachings of Mao Tse Tung, chairman of the Chinese Communist party. They were arrested Wednesday evening in three separate police raids.
Among the three released was Dagrun Enzensberger, 35, divorced wife of poet Hans Magnus Enzensberger. She is a leader of the "horror commune". Still in custody is Ulrich Enzensberger, the poet's younger brother.
They were seized in the home of the German novelist, Uwe Johnson, who is currently in the United States. Ulrich Enzensberger occupied the Johnson residence at 14 Niedstrasse in the district of Friedenau as a subtenant.
He and Dagrun Enzensberger apparently turned the house into a home for the "horror commune."
The "commune" was involved in an earlier incident on Easter Sunday when members threw paint-filled sacks and eggs at the U.S. Information Service's Amerika Haus in the center of West Berlin. The police locked up about 15 youths at the time.

Mahler said the "commune" members planned to throw their missiles yesterday afternoon when the Humphrey motorcade passed through one of Berlin streets on a tour of the city.
The West Berlin police stuck to the thesis of an explosives plot yesterday afternoon and the press carried headlines calling it an assassination conspiracy.
Last evening an armed police squad arrested Klaus Gilleman, former chairman of the Berlin SDS organization, in front of the building housing the student organization at 140 Kurfurstendamm. He had been passing out leaflets denouncing Wednesday's arrests.

Russians Planning Record Test Well Of 49,500 Feet

MEXICO CITY (AP) — A Russian scientist said yesterday the Soviet Union plans to explore earth's crust by drilling a test well to a depth of 49,500 feet. This would double the current world depth record.
E.I. Taghiev of the Moscow Institute of Petrochemical and Gas Industry told the seventh World Petroleum Congress that preparatory work on the well is under way.
Taghiev said the well will contribute greatly to deep drilling research. No indication was given as to the site of the test.
He expressed regret that the $129 million US Mohole project has been abandoned.

Ohio Farmers Still Sell Dairy Cows In Milk Campaign

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Some dairy cows still were being sold in central and southern Ohio yesterday in the National Farmers Organization campaign for increased milk prices to producers.
In Columbus, the Ohio Packing Co. reported it had received more than 150 dairy cows from nearly a score of counties in the central and southern areas of the state.
Sale of some cattle has been advocated by NFO leaders to curtail milk production. A milk withholding action started by the NFO collapsed last week.

Scientists Choose Possible Landing Sites for Orbiter

WASHINGTON (AP) —The National Aeronautics and Space Administration listed eight locations on the moon Wednesday

Building Hoist Fails at Job.

Workman Injured

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A load of material being hoisted to the top of a building under construction in downtown Pittsburgh plummeted downward with a roar yesterday, injuring several workers.

At least two workmen were injured badly enough to be hospitalized, and three others were taken to a hospital for x-rays.

Bill Weikert, 40, of Williamsport, a job superintendent, was listed in serious condition in the intensive care unit of Allegheny General Hospital.

Jack Snodgrass, 43, of Pittsburgh's North Side, was reported in fair condition at Mercy Hospital.

Taken to Mercy for x-rays were Edward Holland, Harry Jennings and David Shack, all of Pittsburgh.

Workers have raised five floors of steel framework for the 40-story office tower, being built at Sixth and Liberty avenues for the Oliver-Tyrene Corp.

Police said a derrick atop the framework was raising a load of construction material when something either happened to a boom or a cable snapped, dropping the material on workers.

as prime sites for a manned landing.

The selections were made on the basis of photographs taken by Surveyor spacecraft landed on the moon and by the three lunar orbiter spacecraft that have photographed the moon from altitudes of 30 miles or more.

With the number of potential initial landing areas thus narrowed down from some 20 that had been considered, the agency has decided that the last two lunar orbiters in the program will be sent into near-polar orbits around the moon, instead of equatorial orbits, to look at many other lunar areas of particular scientific interest.

A third Surveyor spacecraft is to be launched on its way to the moon surface April 17. A fourth lunar orbiter is to be launched May 4.

Results of the lunar orbiter missions to date, and plans for future activity, were outlined by heads of the lunar research programs at a news conference at which more than 360 photographs taken by lunar Orbiter 3 were released for the first time. They were striking views, shedding more light on hitherto unknown features of the moon.

Dr. Leonard Reifel of the NASA office of manned spaceflight said the eight sites were selected on the basis of screening by photo interpreters, geologists and others at the Langley Research Center, Hampton, Va., and the Manned Spacecraft Center, Houston.

He explained that project managers wanted sites distributed across the face of the moon 26 degrees or more apart in triple locations. This would provide three opportunities to launch Apollo spacecraft in a single month.

"All the sites are large enough for one or more Apollo landing ellipses," Reifel said. The Apollo landing ellipse is about three miles wide and five miles long.

The plan is to provide each mission with a choice of three sites along the moon equator, one in the east, one in the center, and one on the west side of the face of the moon.

The selection team chose five sites photographed by lunar Orbiter 2, including the smoothest of the lot, southeast of the Sea of Tranquility.

Three were photographed by Orbiter 3, including one near the point of the landing of Surveyor 1. Orbiter 3 also photographed a site selected for the Surveyor 3 landing later this month, in the ocean of storms.

Harold Masursky of the U.S. Geological Survey, Menlo Park, Calif., said lunar orbiter photographs gave scientists a tremendous amount of new information about lunar geographic features including:

1. A great fault 400 miles long and one to two miles wide and 2,000 feet deep, as deep as the Black Canyon on the Gunnison River and almost as large as the Grand Canyon of Arizona.
2. Domes five miles in diameter and 1,000 feet high.
3. A mountain in the crater Theophilus 6,500 feet high.
4. A tiny crater which showed up in infra-red measurements as much hotter than the surrounding area, possibly because of relatively recent origin.
5. Evidence of earthquake erosion.

TASK FORCE REPORTS

State Must Increase Public Welfare

By JOHN L. TAYLOR
HARRISBURG (AP) — A

State Chamber Seeks State Tax For New Budget

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A new broad-based tax is needed to balance next year's state budget, an official of the State Chamber of Commerce said here yesterday.

Robert Hubbard, executive director of the chamber, said an extension of the sales tax or a form of personal income tax seemed to be the best solution.

Hubbard told members of the Chamber of Commerce of Greater Philadelphia that Gov. Shafer must find at least $200 million in new revenues to balance the budget which he is scheduled to submit to the legislature Tuesday.

He said the state chamber has no tax recommendations at this time, but that it is opposed to any new levies on business and doubts that a "hodgepodge" of smaller taxes could meet the commonwealth's need.

He said the present sales tax of five percent is not the most burdensome in the nation. He said that Pennsylvania does not tax food or clothing, as many states do, and therefore, the tax is less stringent.

legislative task force was told Thursday that the state must make sizable increases in its outlays for public welfare to bring the quality of present services in line with acceptable standards.

Owen R. Davidson, representing the Philadelphia Area Health and Welfare Council, Inc., testified at a public hearing that the state should spend an additional $100 million to $360 million a year more for public assistance alone.

"The present public assistance grants in Pennsylvania are generally considered inadequate," Davidson said. "In the Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC), which accounts for more than half the total, the level of grants is about 76 per cent of the minimum necessary for the health and decency as established by the Department of Public Welfare."

"AFDC grants in Pennsylvania average slightly less than $40 per person per month. This can be compared to about $50 per person in New York and to the $65 per person per month goal of the Social Security Administration."

Davidson was one of more than a score of witnesses who testified during the second and concluding day of public hearings into future needs in welfare, health and education. The task force conducting the hearings is composed of the House Appropriations and Ways and Means Committee.

Rep. H. Jack Seltzer, R-Lebanon, chairman of the Appropriations Committee, noted that 75 per cent of the state's annual $1.7 billion budget went for either health, education or welfare.

"With the knowledge that we hope to acquire in these hearings, we will have taken the first step toward discovery of the next decade's needs and the way we can meet them," Seltzer said.

John F. Worman, executive director of the Hospital Association of Pennsylvania testified that hospitalization costs should double by 1975. He cited soaring labor costs as the primary reason.

Dr. J. Everett McClenahan, president of the Pennsylvania Medical Society, told the panel that the state must seek significant amounts of additional revenue within the next three or four years as the result of recent federal health and welfare legislation.

He pointed to federal Medicare legislation, which has a provision for the state to share in health services with federal reimbursement.

While noting that tax increases are unpopular, McClenahan warned that if health services are not provided by the state, the responsibility will be assumed by Washington "at a cost to Pennsylvanians far greater than that which would be the case under...state administration."

Gilbert's Folly

One of our cohorts, after reading our column on professional soccer earlier this week, has supplied us with the January-February issue of BUSINESS PROGRESS that features a story on this nation's newest pro sport.

Written by Doug Gilbert, the article starts out by announcing, after a lead concerning the mechanics of the game, that "you're going to be a soccer fan!"

He attempts to prove his point by noting that "many of this country's top sports executives, lawyers, bankers and insurance executives are going to be out a lot of money" if we don't become soccer fans. He adds, "...and these are the sort of people who don't make a habit of backing bad bets."

Well, there's no time like the present to start. The headline over the article states, "American sport fans have been asking for something new for years. Baseball, basketball and even football have been bringing on more yawns lately. Well look out, everybody—HERE COMES SOCCER!"

Oh, yeh? We haven't seen anyone yawn when the Pirates meet the Giants or Green Bay hosts Baltimore. In fact, it's our understanding that, including television, more and more people are watching and listening to sportscasts of baseball, football and basketball every year. And the big games have been setting box office records.

The writer goes on to explain how and why the game is so popular in other countries and lists a few of the rules. He even recounts a few riots and notes that in Brazil a water-filled moat surrounds one field to protect players and officials from the spectators "just in case emotions get out of hand."

This is what we need in the United States? Gilbert concludes the article by noting that, to get their original investments back ($300,000 per team), the owners will have to "find some way to break down the support that ethnic groups in the United States give their teams."

How's that again? We weren't aware that you had to be Irish to root for Notre Dame or even a Texan to climb on the Cowboys' band wagon.

If nothing else, we agree with Gilbert's final sentence: "The big money sports promoters seem to want much more and, if nothing else, their desire makes it a sure bet that you're going to be hearing a lot more about soccer in the coming months."

Yeh, right up until the league folds.

STEELE SHAVINGS—The cream, supposedly, of Pennsylvania's high school football players will meet in the near future in an East-West game in preparation for the Big 33-Texas All-Stars contest in August. The game is a step in the right direction, since we've been whipped the last two times out, but it may not be enough.

The Pennsylvania coaches will be able to, hopefully, select the best 33 gridders from the 53 listed on both squads, but they still won't have played together when Bobby Layne and his charges appear here.

Eagle Thinclads Open Today

Defending B Champs Hosting Harborcreek

Youngsville High School opens the 1967 Warren County track and field season today by hosting Harborcreek in a dual meet.

Warren's thinclads won't start competition until Tuesday, when they travel to Youngsville, and Eisenhower opens its season next Saturday at an invitational meet at Indiana, Sheffield's track program is still in doubt.

Youngsville Eagle track coach Toly Shea said that with a lack of depth and no strength in the shorter events his team will be hard pressed to retain its District 10, Class B championship.

The Eagles lost their sprinters and hurdlers plus a lot of depth in most of the other events.

Shea stated that even if the Eagles win a number of events the opposition will probably take a second and a third. If the opponent can win the events that the Eagles are weak in, it could be a long season for the Red and White.

Assisting Shea will be Harry Shapiro.

Though they have been forced to practice inside, the Eagles of Shea have worked hard. The 11 lettermen have been the leaders so far, according to Shea. They will also be expected to carry much of the burden.

Shea said that the three fastest men on the squad, Conrad Danielson, Kay Burleigh and Glenn Collins, will probably run the 100-yard dash. Danielson and Burleigh will get the call in the 220 with Collins doing most of the work in the 440.

Youngsville has a top 330 man back in Mike Johnson. He will be backed up by Bob Long and Dave Danielson.

The mile is another weak event for the Eagles. Max Collins is expected to do well even though he is only a sophomore. There will be a field of freshmen to back him up.

Ed Holcomb and John Brasington will run the grueling two mile race.

Right now Shea said that the hurdles are a big question mark. Last year he had three good ones in Pat Shaine, Denny Mason and Denny Rigby. All have graduated and now there is no one for the event.

The relay events are not definite yet and probably won't be until the opening meet on April 7 against Harborcreek. The field events seem to be a little stronger for the Eagles. Whether they carry enough points to make the match interesting is hard to foretell.

Bob Chisholm and Kay Burleigh will probably compete in the long jump, triple jump and high jump. In the long jump they will be joined by Tom Burleigh and Conrad Danielson. Danielson will also triple jump.

Bob Long and Dale Munson will carry the pole vaulting for the Eagles. Long got some experience last year.

Grass Too Fast To Keep Mowed!

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — The grass on Augusta National's fairways grows too fast to keep under control, the chairman of the Masters Golf Tournament said yesterday in answer to complaints of the fairway conditions.

"We mow the fairways twice a day, cross cut," Clifford Roberts said.

"The early warm weather threatened to burn out the fairways and we have been forced to keep them well watered. As a result the grass grows very fast—too fast for us to keep up with it."

In the shot put event the Eagles have Ron Knapp, Clyde Murray, Jeff Luvison, Gary Carter and Bruce Fitzgerald. This could be the event in which the Red and White sweeps the first three places.

The discus is another strong event with Carter, Murray and Tom Burleigh doing the work. Fitzgerald, a top notch javelin man, will be back at his specialty. He will receive help from freshman Ray Hajnik, who according to Shea, has looked real good.

With the lack of depth and no strength at all in a couple events it could be a long season for the Eagles.

The schedule is as follows.

Eagle Track Schedule

April 7—Harborcreek
11—Warren
13—Oil City
18—Tutusville
21—Sheffield
25—Townsville

NICKLAUS, PALMER BACK IN PACK, COMPLAIN ABOUT COURSE

Bert Yancey Takes Opening Day Lead in Masters Play with 3-up-67

By WILL GRIMSLEY Associated Press Sports Writer
AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Bert Yancey, a young, former West Pointer who fell in love with the fickle Augusta National Course at first sight, grabbed the first round lead with a five-under-par 67 yesterday as tricky winds and thick fairways confused the favorites in the 31st Masters Golf Tournament.

"I love the course, it's a friendly course, I thought I might do well here," the 28-year-old pro from Tallahassee, Fla., said after jumping three strokes in front of U.S. Open champion Bill Casper and the surprising amateur, 23-year-old Downing Gray of Pensacola, Fla., tied at 70.

The two strong advance favorites — defending champion Jack Nicklaus and four-time winner Arnold Palmer — shot 72 and 73, respectively, and bitterly criticized the condition of the course.

"The fairway grass was extremely high," said Nicklaus, tournament recordholder and bidding for an unprecedented third title in a row. "You couldn't put spin on the ball. It was impossible to tell where the ball was going."

Palmer agreed. "There were a lot of grassy lies out there," the Latrobe, Pa., millionaire said. "I didn't know what was going to happen."

Both said they also were troubled by the gusty, capricious winds which swirled and died without notice.

"That was a darn good round," Palmer said of Yancey's score.

"It was great under the conditions," said Nicklaus. In the field of 83, including the best pros and amateurs of the world, only two other players cracked par. They were Julius Boros, the sweet-swinging 47-year-old, who has won two

WILT BARS THE DOOR

Larry Siegfried of the Boston Celtics finds the going rough as he tries around Philadelphia 76er Wilt Chamberlain in Wednesday night's NBA Eastern Division playoff in Philly. Siegfried was forced to pass off as Chamberlain blocked all access to the basket. The 76ers won their third straight over the Celts, 115-104, and can sew up the division title with a victory Sunday.

American Opens, and Tony Jacklin, a handsome, 22-year-old pro from London, tied at 71. Nicklaus was tied with a cluster at par 72, including old Sam Snead, winner of more than 100 tournaments; Tommy Bolt, Peter Butler of England, Gene Littler, Bobby Nichols, Canadian George Knudson and the 19-year-old amateur from San Francisco, John Miller.

Palmer had some prominent mates in the 73 list including Gay Brewer, one of the hottest players of the spring tour; Dave Marr, former PGA champion, Chi Chi Rodriguez of Puerto Rico and Australian Kel Nagle.

Marr and Brewer both started fast with outgoing 33s over the ta course. Marr bogeyed five of six holes on the back nine and Brewer, recent winner of the Pensacola Open, four-putted from 20 feet on the treacherous, 155-yard 12th.

Art Wall, Jr., winner in 1959, also started with a 33 but had an incoming 41 for 74.

It wasn't a day of disaster entirely for the game's great and near-greats.

Bruce Devlin, the slender one-time Australian plumber, knocked in a double eagle — the second in the tournament's history — on the 330-yard eighth, yet finished with a 74.

After a big drive, he hit a tremendous four-wood which sent the ball to just in front of the green, one bounce onto the green and into the cup.

The only other double eagle in the tournament was the famous deuce by Gene Sarazen in the last round of the 1935 tournament which helped Gene tie Craig Wood for the title and later win the playoff.

Yancey is a tall, handsome youngster who has been a pro since 1961 but on the tour only since 1964. He barely made expenses the first two years but last year won three tournaments and $42,938.

Although his gallery consisted largely of his mother and father — Mr. and Mrs. M. N. Yancey of Tallahassee — and he was playing his first official round over the famed course, the young pro never lost his poise.

He started with a birdie on the par five second from eight feet and sinking a 15-footer at the 200-yard fourth. He three-putted the sixth from about 40 feet but ran in four more birdies — three of them in the space of four holes on the back nine.

He put his tee shot eight feet from the cup at the 12th, then birdied both the finishing par fives — the 475-yard 13th and 520-yard 15th — chipping close on the first and reaching the second with two powerful blows.

Yancey entered West Point in 1957 and became the Army golf captain in 1960 but shortly afterward suffered a nervous breakdown and received a medical discharge. He continued his schooling at Florida State, but became a pro before getting his degree.

"I never saw the Augusta course until this week," said Yancey, who received an invitation because of his performance on the fall tour. "I have always had an ambition to play here."

He said the wind was very tricky. "It would blow up and then die down without notice."

Would You Believe Two Holes-in-One?

PORTALES, N.M., (AP) — Would you believe two holes-in-one in the same foursome in the same round?

Joe Randolph, Ed Howell, H. T. Prince and Grady Beard do. Randolph hit a four-iron shot on the Par 3, 172-yard No. 4 hole. The ball hit the flag stick and dropped in.

On the same round Wednesday, Prince hit a four-iron on the par 3, 190-yard No. 9 hole.

Trials for Pan-Am Team Begins Today

By LEW FERGUSON Associated Press Sports Writer
MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The National Collegiate Athletic Association and the Amateur Athletic Union, long at odds in a track and field sanctioning feud, are co-favorites in the four-team Pan-American Games trials round-robin basketball tournament opening here tonight.

Prestige is on the line for the teams representing the NCAA, AAU, National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics and Armed Forces in the three-day tourney at the University of Minnesota.

From the 48 players representing the four organizations, an 18-man squad will be selected to compete for the United States in the Pan-American Games at Winnipeg July 23-Aug. 7.

The NCAA will start All-American Elvin Taves of Houston and Sonny Dove of St. John's, N.Y., both 6-foot-8; All-American Westley Unseld of Louisville, 6-8, and 6-4 Jo Jo White of Kansas and 5-10 Russ Critchfield of California.

The AAU can match the NCAA on height with 6-7 Ray Carey of Bartlesville, Okla., and 6-7 Jim King of Okla.; 6-10 Kendall Rhine of Bartlesville and 6-4 Darel Carrier of Bartlesville and 6-0 Calvin Fowler of Akron.

The NAIA team will start Darryl Jones, 6-5, St. Benedict's, Kan., Al Tucker, 6-8, Oklahoma Baptist, Bob Kaufman, 6-8, Guilford, Earl Monroe, 6-3, Winston-Salem and Henry Logan, 6-0, Western Carolina. For the Armed Forces, the likely starters are 6-6 Mike Stillman, 6-2 John Clawson, 6-6 John Snipes, 6-2 Mike Barrett and 6-0 Darius Cunningham. Stillman played at West Point, Clawson at Michigan, Barrett at West Virginia Tech and Cunningham at Kentral, Ohio, State.

Tonight's opening program pits the NCAA against the Armed Forces at 7 p.m., and the AAU against the NAIA at 9 p.m.

Fish Contest Scheduled At Tionesta

TIONESTA — Tionesta will have another contest for fishermen who like to catch trout. Lud Haller, businessman and contest sponsor announced yesterday that two prizes will be offered:

For the longest trout caught in Venango, Forest, Crawford and Warren counties, $50;

For the most trout over 15 inches caught in the same limits, $25.

The contest will begin Saturday, April 15, and continue until the trout season ends in September, 1967.

Haller said that several dozen fishermen entered their catches in the contest last year.

The winner was Robert Lambert, who picked up $75 for his fun by entering a 26½ inch rainbow which he caught in the Allegheny River at Oleopolis and 15 trout over 12 inches in length.

To be eligible all trout must be brought to Haller's for measurement.

In the meantime, while some fishermen have been marking time for the opening of trout season, others have been having "fair" to "good" luck catching suckers, crappies and perch in The River and Tionesta creek here.

They are using small minnows for the crappies, which are schooling around Jack Sherman's sand and gravel island in preparation for spawning.

The perch are being caught at the outlet of Tionesta flood control reservoir. Some fishermen using worms for suckers are taking bullheads. The Tionesta reservoir has excellent bullhead fishing in its upper reaches below Nebraska.

Last spring the fish commission netted thousands of the bullheads here and was surprised at their size.

Cardy to Start For N.Y. Mets Against Buccos

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Don Cardwell, a former Pittsburgh Pirate, was named yesterday as the opening day pitcher for the New York Mets against his old mates next Tuesday at Shea Stadium.

Manager Wes Westrum announced Cardwell and his probable opening day batting order before the Mets' final exhibition game at Lang Field last night against the St. Louis Cards. Westrum spent the afternoon at Bradenton, Fla., presumably scouting relief pitcher Wes Stock of the A's.

If Sandy Alomar, bothered by a bruised right shoulder can play, he will go into the line-up at second base and will lead off.

Westrum also announced that rookie Tom Seaver will pitch against the Pirates next Thursday in the second game of the season.

Joe Coleman pitched five hitless innings for Washington, which beat the New York Yankees 5-2 in a game marred by eight errors, five by the Senators and three by the Yankees.

Tony Conigliaro drove in two runs with a double in the sixth inning, sending Boston to a 4-1 victory over Detroit.

Jose Cardenal's sacrifice fly in the sixth inning, gave California a 1-0 victory over San Francisco. George Brunet, who went seven innings, and Bill Kelso combined to limit the Giants to six hits.

Mick at First, Mel on Mound In Yank Opener

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Mickey Mantle will open the Baseball season at first base Monday when the New York Yankees appear in the Presidential opener at Washington. The former star center fielder made the shift this spring and has played in most of the exhibition games.

Manager Ralph Houk announced yesterday that Mel Stottlemyre, a 20-game loser last season, would start for the Yankees against the Senators. Stottlemyre, tuned up impressively Wednesday night by shutting out Baltimore with one hit over a six-inning stretch.

Bill Robinson, the rookie outfielder acquired from the Atlanta Braves in the Clete Boyer deal, will open in right field.

The new infield alignment will have Mantle at first, Horace Smith second, ex-Dodger John Kennedy at short and Charlie Smith, ex-Card at third.

Elston Howard will catch and Tom Tresh, Joe Pepitone and Robinson will man the outfield. Smith, who suffered a slight shoulder separation, resumed playing yesterday.

SWOBODA GETS THE BIRD

Somewhat taken aback by finding a long-billed Toucan bird clinging to his hat, New York Met first baseman Ron Swoboda decided to make the best of a publicity gag and make friends with his feathered friend. The South American bird, property of Sunken Gardens, a local tourist attraction, was at Huggins-Stengle Field at St. Petersburg, Florida one day this week to watch a pre-game workout.

Orioles, Pirates Favored In Baseball Scribes' Poll

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Baltimore Orioles and Pittsburgh Pirates were picked to win the 1967 major league baseball pennants yesterday in the annual Associated Press poll. The Los Angeles Dodgers, defending National League champions, were tabbed to drop all the way to sixth place.

The Orioles were selected to repeat as American League titleholders by 83 of the 138 baseball writers and broadcasters participating in the balloting.

Bears Deny Signing Of Arkansas Tackle

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Bears of the National Football League denied yesterday they had signed their No. 1 draft choice, All-American tackle Loyd Phillips, as the University of Arkansas player contended earlier in the day.

At Fayetteville, Ark., Phillips was quoted as saying he signed a three-year no-cut contract for more than $100,000 with the Bears on Wednesday.

George (Mugsy) Halas Jr., Bear president, said this was news to him and that Phillips' adviser, an Arkansas law school professor, confirmed in a telephone call that Phillips has not signed any contract. Halas said the professor, Ed J. Ball, who represents Arkansas football players in pro negotiations, also denied that Phillips made other statements attributed to the player.

In announcing his signing, Phillips was quoted as saying he did not want to sign his contract in Chicago as the Bears desired, adding:

"I went there once, and I didn't like it. I'd give anything if they hadn't drafted me."

Halas said the Bear office has received no signed contract from Phillips' Arkansas, only two-time All-American.

"The thing still is open," said Halas. "I won't dignify the remarks attributed to Phillips with any comment."

Halas said Ball and Phillips visited Chicago a week after the pro football draft in New York March 14.

"Right after we drafted him, Phillips told one of our coaches he was flattered and happy the Bears took him as a first choice," said Halas. "It's not the policy of the Bears to announce terms or length of any contract and we caution the players against doing it for obvious reasons."

Yesterday, Phillips was quoted as saying he was pleased the Bears drafted him in the first round.

"I'm happy," he said. "Some people are saying I was born a year too late, because I missed out on the big bonuses of last year. I don't feel that way. I don't know how much everybody else is getting this year but I don't throw it away. I'll be set for some time. And I know I've got a job for three years."

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Providence College All-American Jim Walker, the player atop professional basketball's most wanted list, had a price tag of $300,000 placed on his head yesterday.

That's the price at which the bidding for Walker may have to begin according to Frank Scott, Walker's New York agent.

Scott says he hopes the bidding for Walker's services can begin at the $300,000 package price with the contract undoubtedly to cover a three-year period.

Walker has already been drafted by the Indianapolis entry in the new American Basketball Association and is expected to be the first-round selection of the Detroit Pistons.

Rangers Blow Lead, Canadiens Win, 6-4

MONTREAL (AP) — Ralph Backstrom slammed in a rebound with just over five minutes to play, capping a furious four-goal rally that triggered Montreal's defending Stanley Cup champions to a 6-4 victory over the New York Rangers Thursday night in the opener of their National Hockey League playoff series.

The Canadiens wiped out a 4-1 New York lead in less than six minutes and ruined the Rangers' bid for an upset victory in their first playoff appearance since 1962.

After Backstrom's second goal of the game broke a 4-4 tie, with 5:05 to play, Montreal captain Jean Beliveau scored the wrapup tally at the 18:07 mark.

Montreal, seeking its third straight Cup title, entertains the Rangers Saturday afternoon in the nationally televised second game of the best-of-7 semifinal series.

Claude Provost, used sparingly by the Canadiens in the first two periods, touched off the Montreal comeback at 9:12 of the final session, shoving the puck under goalie Ed Giacomin's pads from close in. Dick Duff and Bobby Rousseau assisted on the play.

Just 22 seconds later, defenseman J.C. Tremblay's drive from the right point caromed off a Ranger defender and into the cage, cutting New York's lead to 4-3.

John Ferguson, who had scored eight goals against New York during the season, hit the tying marker with 8:57 remaining after taking a pass from Beliveau. Ferguson's shot hit Ranger defenseman Harry Howell and Arnie Brown before skipping past the stunned Giacomin.

Backstrom then cashed in on linemate Claude Larose's rebound and Beliveau converted passes from Provost and J.C. Tremblay for the insurance goal.

The Rangers had startled the heavily-favored Canadiens with two power play goals in the second period and two more tallies early in the third.

Rod Gilbert scored twice for New York, snapping a 1-1 deadlock late in the middle session and ramming his own rebound with less than two minutes gone in the third.

Vic Hadfield beat rookie goalie Rogatien Vachon at 5:18 of the finale and the crowd of 14,524 began hooting the Canadiens before Provost, J.C. Tremblay, Ferguson, Backstrom and Beliveau took charge.

Beliveau's goal tied the playoff mark of seven goals by both clubs in one period, last accomplished in 1944.

Boom Boom Geoffrion's power play goal snapped a scoreless tie early in the second period and after Backstrom scored for the Canadiens, New York capitalized on a five-minute penalty to Jacques Laperriere, Gilbert firing the go-ahead goal on an assist from Ken Schinkel.

The Canadiens outshot New York 15-6 in the wild third period for an overall edge of 35-26.

Bear Lake Council Discusses Gas Line

By PEGGY OSBORNE

Mr. Alex Perkin of Youngtown, Ohio visited Mr. Raymond Cobb on Monday.

Tuesday evening the Bear Lake Council met at the fire hall with President Manfred Smith presiding at the meeting.

The council received a letter from the Pennsylvania Gas Company, about gas coming in to Bear Lake. Their extension policy permits them to extend three-inch mains 250 feet and two-inch mains 300 feet for each customer at no cost to the customer. The cost of any excess main would be borne by the customers and in this case would amount to $14,580 which, if divided equally among the 103 potential customers, would amount to $141.55 each.

If only 90 are willing to pay for excess main, the amount would be $162.00 each. Refunds of $565.00 would be returned to the group for each additional service attached to these mains within five years from date of agreement, or until the total contribution has been returned, whichever occurs first. Any contributions not refunded at the end of five years would be retained by the Company.

It was voted to have the junk man to collect the junk this spring. The date will be set later.

It was voted to send a letter to all people who have open cellars and have them filled in, and taken care of.

Council also is sending the dog catcher a letter on all the dogs running around Bear Lake loose, and without license.

Mrs. Walter Newhouse is a patient at Warren Hospital.

STARBRICK CEMETERY VANDALIZED

The most despicable act of vandalism—that of desecrating a cemetery—occurred sometime between Sunday and Wednesday at West View Cemetery on Weiler rd., Starbrick. Chief Deputy Sheriff Richard E. Hegerty, who is investigating, said 15 grave stones were pushed over in scattered areas in the cemetery—some being moved off their foundations as pictured. Several permanent glass markers were smashed and the pump of a well used to water flowers was also damaged. (Photo by Mansfield)

Gen. Creighton W. Adams Number Two Man in Vietnam

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
WASHINGTON (AP) —Gen. Creighton W. Adams Jr., who used to lead his tanks into battle with the cry "Attack! Attack! Attack!" is being sent to Vietnam as second in command.

President Johnson announced Adams' assignment yesterday as deputy to Gen. William C. Westmoreland. Both White House and Pentagon officials said there is no move afoot for Adams to replace Westmoreland as top commander in Vietnam.

Adams, who conferred with Johnson at the White House, told reporters he expects to be Westmoreland's helper, carrying out a variety of chores "pretty much across the board."

Now 52, stocky and graying, Adams is a combat veteran whose aggressiveness in World War II won a rare salute from the legendary Gen. George S. Patton.

"I'm supposed to be the best tank commander in the army," said Patton. "But I have one peer—Abe Adams."

His face reflects the tough qualities that have carried Adams from way down in his West Point class—135th to four-star rank in the Army. At West Point he was a classmate of Westmoreland, who is his 4-star senior by about a month.

His looks—together with his toughness, economy of speech, and liking for big long cigars—are reminiscent of the Air Force's retired chief of staff, Gen. Curtis E. Lemay.

For most of the past five years, Adams has moved through a variety of staff jobs in the Pentagon. He has been Army vice chief of staff since September, 1964.

The White House said Lt. Gen. Ralph E. Haines will succeed Adams as vice chief of staff. Haines, now commander of the 3rd Corps at Ft. Hood, Tex., will be nominated for promotion to full general.

Adams returned only Wednesday from his third inspection trip to Vietnam.

"Each time I've come back with a stronger feeling of confidence," he told newsmen. He said he believes the force level in Vietnam "is about right" in the light of the type of operations being conducted there.

House to Have Permanent Committee on Ethics

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST
WASHINGTON (AP) —The House finally is going to have a permanent Ethics Committee, but when and how it will go into action is uncertain.

Creation of the committee was made definite yesterday when the Rules Committee unanimously approved a resolution authorizing it. House leaders said they would schedule a floor vote on the measure probably next week. Little, if any, opposition is expected.

Adam Clayton Powell, the New York Democrat whose misconduct was largely responsible for the demand for the new committee, probably won't be around to vote if the resolution comes before the House next week.

Powell's exclusion from House membership on March 1 for exploitation of public funds, defiance of New York courts and general disregard of House Rules gave impetus to the drive to set up the new committee.

Powell is favored to be re-elected in a special election next Tuesday but if he is the House may refuse to seat him.

The resolution to create the committee as a permanent group gave it a name—Committee on Standards of Official Conduct—and said it should be composed of six Democrats and six Republicans to be chosen by their colleagues.

But it limited its jurisdiction to proposing standards of official conduct for House members and employees and put no time limit on when it should make a report. Whatever standards are recommended will have to be cleared by the Rules Committee and ratified by the House.

Presumably, the new committee's jurisdiction will be broadened after its preliminary work is completed.

"THE BARBER SALS"—that's their official name now since it's registered at the International headquarters of Sweet Adelines. This is the same group that sang under the name of "The Chromatics" in the highly successful "Shamrocks and Shillelaghs" around St. Patrick's Day: Joyce Hishman, tenor; Sue Houston, lead; Beverly Peterson, baritone; and Florence Stevenson, bass. Now they are all set and ready to go anywhere to sing their songs and entertain—for a nominal donation—at any function. Competition is part of the life of the Sweet Adelines, and it goes without saying money is needed to compete, so every now and then they must think of ways to raise the crisp greenery. The foregoing will help, but they also have other pots boiling in the fire, such as the rummage sale planned for April 27 and 28.—The time and place will be announced soon. All donations of good used clothing, household articles and furniture will be appreciated. Call and let them know what you have that will add to their sale. Joyce Hishman may be reached at 726-0568 or Beverly Peterson at 726-0666.—They will be glad to arrange for pickup of donations.

LAST CALL FOR COOKIES! If you haven't ordered Girl Scout cookies this is one final change to get a supply for the small fry in your house, or to just keep on hand for the not-so-small-fry of high school age who like them with a cold glass of milk as an after school snack. Girl Scouts of Troop 238 will be selling the cookies tomorrow from 4 to 6 p.m. at Penneys and Levinsons, and again on Saturday in the same places, but from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. There are five kinds this year, and they really are delicious.

MINIATURES: The monthly meeting of the board of directors of the Family Service and Children's Aid Society will be held in the office of the society on Tuesday, April 11.

Pittsfield PTA will meet on Monday night at 8 o'clock when Mrs. Helen Matthews, dietitian for all schools in the county, will be the guest speaker.

World War I Veterans of Barracks 1020, and their Ladies Auxiliary will be held at Stoneham Community Hall Monday, April 10 at 7:30 p.m.

Fred J. Weigle of Maryland was a guest at the home of his mother, Mrs. Ray Weigle for a couple of days.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband and I have known Bill and Rita for a long time. We were at their home last Saturday, and after several hours of talking and drinking, my husband managed to get Rita alone in the kitchen. I was left in the living room with Bill.

I don't drink and my husband says this is my trouble. He claims I can't get into the swing of things because I am not relaxed. I've always had a hunch that most people drink because it gives them an excuse to do and say things they wouldn't do and say if they were sober.

My husband finally came out of the kitchen and announced that he and Rita were going out to get some fresh air and he hoped Bill and I had a good time. I told him nothing doing. We had an argument and my husband and Rita left.

My husband came right out and said he sees nothing wrong in switching partners if everyone agrees. According to him, 20 years is a long time to be married to one woman and he is getting curious. He also said he deserves some credit for being open and aboveboard.

He is a very persuasive arguer and sometimes I wonder if I am crazy. Please advise.—SPOILSPORT

DEAR S: There's nothing wrong with you, Doll. Your husband is the nut in the family. Also, I think you need some new friends.

Sure, people get curious—and some times it doesn't take them 20 years. But curiosity is no excuse for behaving like animals.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have just received a chain letter asking me to send $1 each to nine friends. My instructions said I was to make nine copies and send them off airmail special delivery within 96 hours. Do you realize that this would cost me $9 plus $3.42 in stamps? And it would take several hours to get those nine copies out because I don't own a typewriter?

The letter said if I complied with the request I would save a life and end up rich. It said if I failed to follow the instructions someone dear to me would meet a terrible fate and I would die broke.

I think it's awful to scare people like that. Please tell folks that chain letters interfere with the peace of mind of the average person and nobody has the right to do this.—SHOOK UP

DEAR SHOOK: I will say even more. If they involve payment of money, chain letters are against the law.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our 19-year-old son has a habit of bringing friends to spend the night. The last friend stayed three months.

He ate every meal here, I did his laundry and nursed him through the flu. I got tired of giving him maid service without so much as a thank you or a dime in return, so I told him to leave.

Now when the boy sees me in town he doesn't even say hello. My husband claims the house belongs to our son as well as to us and that I should make his guests feel welcome. He makes it sound so logical I sometimes think he is right. Is he?—HIGH GROCERY BILL

DEAR HIGH: No. A free-loader who hangs around for three months can hardly be regarded as a guest.

Your son should be allowed to offer hospitality to his friends, but he has no right to expect his mother to be a cook, maid, laundress and nurse to the strays he finds around town.

A New You by Emily Wilkens Happy Hair Care

A thick, luxurious, shining head of hair can be one of the most enticing things about you. If your hair isn't as lovely as you'd like it to be, right now is the time to track down the culprits.

Are you feeding your hair properly? The same foods that put roses in your cheeks help keep your hair in top condition. Fur breeders recently discovered that a daily dose of unsaturated oil made their animals' fur grow thick and glossy. You may not be a mink, but your hair will show the same happy results if you include a few tablespoons of corn or safflower oil in your diet.

Do you brush your hair at least fifty strokes per day? Regular brushing with the proper type of brush makes for lustrous, lively hair.

Splurge on two natural-bristle brushes. They're worth their weight in gold. With a brush in each hand, bend over with your head hanging down. Begin brushing your hair in sections, alternating hands. Start at the nape of the neck and work forward. Touch your scalp with the brush first, then draw it gently through your hair. This kind of brushing improves both dry and oily hair problems.

What about shampooing? To look its best, your hair must be squeaky clean. Use a mild shampoo, such as castile. Massage your scalp with your fingertips as you work up a sudsy lather. Rinse thoroughly and shampoo again. Then rinse, rinse, rinse to remove every last trace of soap. Finish by rinsing with very cold water. It adds shine and helps control kinkiness.

Has your hair been "out of condition" lately? A conditioning treatment at least every few weeks will keep your hair in top form.

You may use heated castor or baby oil, massaging it through the scalp, then wrapping your head in a well wrung-out hot towel before shampooing. Some girls prefer an easy-to-use protein-type conditioner.

Are you aware of these hair damagers? Tearing apart your teased or back-combed locks wreaks havoc with your hair. Use a little plastic brush to undo the teasing, working from the ends toward the scalp. Better still, try to find a hairstyle that requires little or no teasing.

Fastening chignons or ponytails too tightly can cause breakage, fall-out and split ends. So can using brush rollers.

Sleeping on rollers is as bad for your hair as it is for your sleep. If you must sleep on rollers, use the foam rubber kind. Treat your hair with kindness, gentleness and consideration. It will pay you back by truly deserving the name "crowning glory".

JUST FOR YOU. Investigate the new "instant" rollers. Some are electrically heated. They work in the same way as the old curling irons and save hours of looking as if you're wired for sound.

Hints From Heloise

Stop, Look, Read!

Dear Folks:

STOP, look and READ!

How would you like to help save someone's life?

Or prevent a serious injury to a little child or a visitor in your home?

So many times little children (especially the very young ones) cannot read, or do not heed, cautions on containers.

Many times, too, mothers and fathers do not read directions and cautions on bottles and containers. Some bottles do not even have the words "poison," "caustic," "toxic," etc., written on them even though their contents can kill or cripple a person.

So here is what I figured out for you mothers and fathers who have little children. It is also a good safety precaution for yourselves.

Do not delay. Go buy some dark red fingernail polish at your dime store. The brand or quality makes no difference in this case.

Take the little brush out of that bottle of dark red fingernail polish and completely PAINT every bottle cap and lid on such things as bleaches, ammonia, turpentine, kerosene, alcohol, disinfectants, insect sprays, spot removers, cleaners, etc. Include everything that would harm a child if swallowed.

ALSO paint a big "X" with that dark red fingernail polish on BOTH SIDES of all these bottles and containers.

TEACH your child NOW that anything he sees with a red mark—either an "X" or a red cap or lid on it—means "NO! NO!—danger or POISON."

Now is the time to teach your child what poison means and what your marks with the color RED mean. Later, when he learns to talk and understand, you can explain it to him further.

He will use and reuse this red signal all his life. Even before he starts to school, he will learn that a red light means "stop" or "danger." (Later, when he drives a car and sees the red stop lights of a car in front of him go on, he will know it means stop, danger, etc.)

And let me give you another little hint for all young mothers who have small babies. Now is the time to take that bottle of fingernail polish and paint the HOT WATER FAUCET in your bath tub, in your basin, and in your kitchen sink!

Do not worry about putting fingernail polish on your metal water faucets. It won't hurt them one bit. As soon as the child is old enough to clearly remember which is hot water and dangerous, all you have to do is take some fingernail polish remover and remove the red polish with some facial tissue. It comes off clean as a whistle, no matter how long it's been on the faucets.

Opening lead: Six of ♠

When South's one heart bid was raised by partner to two hearts, he had no intention of stopping short of game as is evidenced by the subsequent auction. The recommended procedure then would have been for South to proceed directly to four hearts. His decision to show the diamonds first could serve little constructive purpose, and, in so doing, he paved the way for his own destruction by providing the defense with a valuable clue.

West opened the six of spades and when East's ace dropped the king from declarer's hand, it was obvious that there were no more tricks to be gathered from that source. Prospects for defeat of the contract were slim and desperate measures appeared to be in order. South's diamond rebid had indicated that the latter had at least four and perhaps five card length in that suit which meant that West had very few. East saw a ray of hope provided he could deceive the declarer regarding which defender was short in diamonds.

At trick two, East returned the seven of diamonds. South rose with the ace and led a trump, putting up the queen from dummy. East was in with the ace and he completed his sabotage by playing back the five of diamonds. From declarer's point of view, his opponent apparently had a doubleton—in which case it would be fatal to finesse, for West might win with the queen and then give his partner a ruff.

Declarer played the king of diamonds, and to his utter surprise, it was West who proved to be short in the suit. The latter ruffed the trick and exited with a club. South still had to lose a trick to the queen of diamonds which resulted in a setback on the deal.

Your Horoscope

By Frances Drake

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars. FOR FRIDAY, APRIL 7, 1967

ARIES (March 21 to April 20)—Some situations may be difficult to handle. Make every effort to do your best, however, and without excuses, face up to errors. Smile through the trying hours.

TAURUS (April 21 to May 21)—An average day that asks a little more than ordinary effort. However, with steady persistence and a little extra effort, you could make it a highly satisfying one.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21)—Evaluate thoughtfully, don't jump to conclusions, and take obstacles in stride. This will be your best recipe for the day. Follow procedures that proved successful in the past.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23)—Your intuition, foresight and reflexes should be at a peak now, but don't let periods of lethargy or indifference cause you to offset good influences.

LEO (July 24 to August 23)—Little things should encourage you, such as the regard and sincerity of associates. And big projects should not frighten you—as long as you do YOUR part ably.

VIRGO (August 24 to September 23)—A day which calls for strong discrimination. Read thoughtfully, observe, but do not read unintended meanings into things. Mercury warns against hasty decisions.

LIBRA (September 24 to October 23)—Purpose and wisdom of method stand out as day's needs. Dispose of minor items promptly but deftly. New opportunities indicated.

SCORPIO (October 24 to November 23)—Watch expenditures of time and assets now. Know why you are doing what you ARE doing, and its consequences. Don't let the crowd; rather ignore its influence.

SAGITTARIUS (November 23 to December 21)—Order and order spur your efforts, but you will have to tend matters under other conditions, too, so make up your mind to be adaptable.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20)—Tact, judgment, careful plans go into the making of a progress day, furthering future achievement. Learn what is expected of you first, then proceed with dignity, as an ace.

AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19)—Pay no attention to the dissenter or down-grader, except to sure they do not interfere with YOUR efficient schedule. You can accomplish much now.

PISCES (February 20 to March 20)—This day calls for patience, fair play, understanding, true inner dignity and a sense of humor. YOU can give all this profit by it.

YOU BORN TODAY are a scholar and a lister. While you learn quickly, and are keen about new trends sensing their possibilities, you can fall back through dreaming or failing to find your ideal. Once your imagination and industry are fired, you become adept achievers and can reach unusual goals. Employ your inspiration and power to accomplish against odds. ## How to Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

(c) 1967 By The Chicago Tribune

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

SLEEPING PILLS AND BOOZE

An avid reader wants to know about the possible lethal effects of combining alcohol and barbiturates. The death of a well-known personage prompted her to write: "What amount of alcohol combined with what amount of barbiturates could affect the central nervous system?"

This question cannot be answered in ounces or capsules because lethal dosages depend upon weight, amount consumed at one time, and individual tolerance. On the other hand, these two drugs are synergistic. This means that their combined effect is greater and more dangerous than when consumed separately.

As a rule, there is no need for concern when both products are used in moderation. One or two ounces of whisky is an average dose for the occasional drinker but the boozier may require more to achieve the same effect. The alcohol needed to cause fatal poisoning varies from one pint to a quart. More is tolerated when taken in small amounts over many hours. In addition the dosage of many drugs including alcohol is based upon the weight of the person.

Barbiturates are not harmful when used according to directions, but some neurotic persons take large amounts to become euphoric or go on a spree. Others obtain an inebriant effect when alcohol and the barbiturates combined.

In my opinion, many suicides are blamed on the accidental overdose of alcohol and sleeping pills. The facts are withheld, so the public has no choice but to condemn these drugs. No mention is made of the deceased also being depressed, psychotic, or a user of narcotics.

The barbiturates are second only to carbon monoxide as a cause of suicide. Many persons commit suicide as they have been on a binge—by taking too many sleeping pills. In these circumstances, the synergistic effect is not to blame. When habitual users of sleeping pills are too drunk to remember whether they took their medicine, a second dose, equal to the first, does not always kill them.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request. TOMORROW: Silicone Facelift.

MUMPS IN GROWNUP

J.R. writes: My 35-year-old fiancé recently had mumps. Will this render him sterile?

REPLY: Not if inflammation was confined to the salivary glands. One-third of all adult male victims develop this condition; usually only one side is involved. Sterility results when both reproductive organs are affected and is not a common occurrence.

Today's Health Hint—
Exercise regularly and you may not tire so easily.

FOR STATE HOSPITAL

Inter-Faith Dance Held

By KAYE GORENFLO

On March 18 a dance was held at Warren High, sponsored by the Church Youth Groups of Warren with the proceeds going to the Inter Faith Chapel at the State Hospital.

Entertainment was provided by the Warren High School Dance Band from 10 to 10:30, and free refreshments were offered to all teenagers present. The theme for the dance was "Brotherhood," and the decorators utilized it with crepe paper and clasped hands.

This successful and worthwhile dance was the brain child of Leslie Stein and Margie Musante who hit upon the idea while discussing a possible charity project for their groups.

The theme of "Brotherhood" came from Leslie Stein in observance of National Brotherhood Month.

A first meeting was held at the Stein home with members of the Episcopal, Jewish, and Catholic Youth Groups present. It was decided at this meeting to invite all area youth groups to join in sponsoring the project.

After invitations had been sent out, a second meeting was held at the Musante home and final plans and arrangements were made.

Those groups involved in the project were the Jewish Youth Group, Episcopal Youth Group, First Methodist Youth Group, the Presbyterian Youth Group, and the Catholic Youth Group.

The teenagers behind the project, headed by Margie Musante and Leslie Stein, were Jane Hamilton, Gady Muir, Rick Hofer and Sue Krespan.

Air Force Academy Nominations Due

High school juniors who are interested in entering the United States Air Force Academy upon graduation are reminded to apply for a nomination as soon as possible, said Maj. Robert N. Kunselman, the Academy liaison officer in this area.

Members of Congress have already begun to nominate candidates to the class entering the Academy in June of 1967. Since nominating quotas are limited for each Member of Congress, the student should not delay his application.

Senators and representatives are interested in nominating successful high school students to be considered for Academy appointments from their states and congressional districts. A good scholastic standing, participation in extracurricular activities, and physical fitness are the most important factors considered by Congressmen in choosing their nominees.

Maj. Kunselman is a member of the Air Force Reserve, not on active duty, who represents the Academy in high schools in this area. He urges students who are interested in the Academy to get in touch with him for information concerning the application procedures and entrance examinations.

Maj. Kunselman may be contacted by writing him at Box 337 in Tionesta, or by calling 814-755-4455.

Eisenhower Holds Track Olympics

By CINDY GLOTZ

and MITZI BREZEE

During the week of March 27 through April 1, track coach, Dennis Engstrom and assistant coach, Thomas Firth, headed an "Olympic Village" for the trackmen at Eisenhower High School. The boys lived in the school for one week.

The "Olympic Village" was an original idea of Engstrom and Firth. They presented this idea to the trackmen and trackmen's parents for a reaction. After their approval, the idea was presented to Mr. Gene Rolfs, Athletic Director, County Athletic Council, and Mr. Fred Bauer, E.H.S. principal. The idea was accepted and preparations began.

Sixty-five of 92 trackmen participated. Total cost for each boy amounted to $7 for five dinners and six breakfasts.

The boys reported to the high school on Sunday evening and began to organize the village. The village was made up of six countries consisting of ten or eleven boys each. The six countries represented were: Sweden, Poland, Italy, South Africa, Jamaica, and the U.S.A.

The village was set-up in the gym and was sectioned off by the bleachers. The boys used foam cots and mats for beds along with their sleeping bags, if desired.

Their morning began at 6:30 a.m. each day. The first activity of the day was clean-up. Each country took care of the sleeping gear and everyone made ready for the one-hour exercise period which included calisthenics and usually a cross-country run before breakfast.

From 8:00 to 8:15, breakfast was served in the cafeteria by Mrs. Geraldine Marsh and her cooking staff.

At 8:30 the boys reported to home room, and then attended regular classes throughout the day. After school, they had practice. After practice, they set right to work and set-up the village again.

Dinner each night was served in the Home Economics suite by Mrs. Engstrom and Mrs. Firth, and a few of the trackmen's mothers and the Cinderbells.

After dinner, the boys had a 1½ hour study period, in which they had access to the cafeteria and library. There was also a reading area available in the gymnasium where the boys could study track literature.

Each evening throughout the week, from 9:00 to 10:00, a decathlon, which consisted of two events was held. This totalled ten events for the whole week. The times and distances accumulated brought the boys points. This determined the winners. After these events, showers were taken and each boy had a snack before retiring for the night. "Lights out," was 10:15.

A program was held nightly from 8:00 to 9:30 p.m. On Monday evening, Mr. Melly Dry, head coach at Mansfield State College talked on field events. He also showed the boys some new track innovations.

Tuesday night, Mr. Herb Alenson, former state champion and current holder of the mile record at E.H.S., talked about the transition between high school and college track. Mr. Alenson is the head track coach at Rockport High School, Rockport, New York and an alumnus of Eisenhower High, 1962.

Wednesday evening, the boys heard two Edinboro trackmen, Paul Reed, a graduate of Fort LeBoeuf High School talked about sprints. Carl Krellag, a graduate of North Allegheny High School spoke on distant runs.

Thursday night, movies were presented. Friday was the big night. It was Parents Night in the village. Mr. Harrison Dillard, speaker, was the 1948 and 1952 Olympic Gold Metal winner in the 100-meter dash; the 110-meter high hurdles; and the 400-meter relay. Mr. Dillard spoke of his experiences in the Olympics and he discussed sprinting and hurdling techniques. He complimented the track clinic highly and remarked that it was an excellent idea.

A movie of the 1964 Tokyo Olympic Games was shown by Mr. Engstrom and Mr. Firth. Just like in the actual Olympic games, a parade of the athletes was presented. Diplomas were given to the trackmen for full attendance at the village.

The three place winners of the decathlon were: first—Gary Fry; second—Jim Martin; and third—Barton Lohnes. Gary Fry was also presented with a laurel wreath for the most points gained.

All in all the boys enjoyed their stay at our miniature Olympic Village and believe they benefited greatly from the talks and experiences.

Members representing the different countries were:

JAMAICA—Barton Lohnes, Mick Wachter, Dan Burford, Martin Hoffner, Dale Swanson, Craig Miller, Gary Mazzu, Paris Hunsinger, Gary Byerly, Denny Landin, Adolph Morando.

Edinboro Lowers Tuition

Edinboro State College has reduced the fee of liberal art students $50 a year.

The 14 state colleges have agreed to a uniform $125 a semester for both education and liberal art students. Kutztown State College has also reduced the fee for their students in the fine arts to $125 a semester, but Edinboro State College students in the fine arts will continue to pay a fee of $143 a semester.

Kutztown State College and other state colleges are increasing their costs of board, while Edinboro State College board will remain the same.

Dr. Italo L. de Francesco, President of Kutztown State College said the increase in board is the result of the rise in food prices and that student help needs to be paid more on a graduated scale.

The cost of board at ESC has been the same, $9 week, for the past 11 years without an increase.

By LINDA BORNEY

It's springtime again, and with almost everybody's thoughts turning towards love, the thoughts of some students at Warren Area High School are turning towards something quite different—the annual Gym Show.

This year the delightful circus will hold a matinee on April 20, and the night showings will be held on April 21 and 22.

Tickets for the show can be purchased for only fifty cents from any participant in the show, and at B&B Smoke Shop, and Sires United News.

Under the guidance of Mrs. Mary Creek and Mr. Hall Miller, physical education teachers at the high school, the show promises to be one of the best ever.

All types of entertainment are planned. To provide the music, the W.A.H.S. Concert Band will be on hand, under the direction of Mr. Dan Harpster.

You will see everything from daring stunts on a revolving ladder extended from the ceiling, to a square dance. There will be clowns on hand to add to the enjoyment of the younger members of the audience, and there will be all types of acrobatics.

The W.A.H.S. color guard will also do a drill, and a tap dance will also be shown. The other types of entertainment being planned are—the uneven and low parallel bars, the balance beam, swinging ladder, the horse, high bar, and a girl's free exercise routine. Daring stunts will also be done on the trampoline and trapeze.

A different type of act is also being planned called an adagio act, and there will also be many other types of great entertainment.

225 Pennsylvanians Attend Summer Camp

UNIVERSITY PARK—To learn more about conservation of our natural resources, 225 Pennsylvania high school boys will spend two weeks this summer at the Pennsylvania Junior Conservation Camp near here.
This will be the 20th year for the camp, which was started in 1948 with 36 boys, attending for one week. Since that first group nearly 3,000 boys have participated and many of them have gone on to become forest rangers,

AFS FINALIST

Yvonne Craft of Youngsville High is a finalist in the American Field Service summer-abroad program. agricultural professors, and leading sportsmen in their home areas, explains Charles W. Stoddart, camp director. Stoddart, professor of physical education at Penn State, was responsible for the organization of the camp as an experimental project 20 years ago.

The four groups this summer will report on June 25, July 9, July 23, and Aug. 6 for their two weeks of camp, with about 50 boys scheduled for each period. To attend the camp, a boy must be sponsored by one of the Pennsylvania Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs, the sponsor for the camp. While most quotas are already filled, some districts have a limited number of vacancies.

The camp site is the University's 6,500-acre Stone Valley Recreation Area, much of it forestland, located in Huntingdon county, about 15 miles south of the University Park campus.

New on the program this year will be a field trip to a strip mine area where the campers will learn of pollution problems that may originate from strip mining operations. The campers also will have sessions on survival methods, pond renovation, hunting, improvement of streams and forests, soil conservation, and wildlife management, including a trip to the campus here to study the deer herd.

Faculty members of the University will join with other experts from various Federal and State agencies in conducting the program.

At the end of this school year many high school graduates will be hiking around town putting in their applications for all sorts of jobs; so go the Eisenhower seniors.

There are many classes where students learn what to expect in a business world. One of these classes is Office Practice. In this class, girls learn how to run office machines and get used to what things they will be expected to do on the job.

The machines that Office Practice students learn to operate are: the Remington adding machine, the comptometer, the dictaphone, the spirit duplicator, the mimeograph, the Monroe electric calculator, and the Monroe Hand adding machine.

Here are a few candid shots of Eisenhower students at work. Mrs. Geraldine Hagberg teaches this class at Eisenhower.

From Our Corner

By LENORE MCINTYRE
GOLDEN OPPORTUNITY

For years Tidioute has been talking about how nice it would be to have a recreational area or community park to serve the people of this region. Dreams were fashioned of such things as a swimming beach, picnicking area, a park where young and old alike could meet and play.

But the dreams remained in never-never land because always there was the matter of money. People knew it was just about impossible to raise the amount needed just to purchase a site. The Tidioute Area Chamber of Commerce studied the problem and held a public meeting to discuss it. Nearly everyone seemed to think it was a good plan and that land along the riverfront was an ideal location. But again there was the matter of money.

When the local planning commission was formed a couple of years ago it soon became interested in the idea of a public recreation park. A study was made and incorporated in the borough planning map. Still no prospect of financing seemed evident.

But knowing that the Pennsylvania Fish Commission has become interested and active in the acquisition of land to insure and protect access to the river, the local planners contacted the Fish Commission. The Commission in turn sent a man in to look over the situation.

What he saw evidently pleased him and he seemed confident that the Commission would react favorably to his report. Let us be optimistic and assume that the Fish Commission is willing to pay $20,000 or $25,000 to acquire all of the approximately ten acres involved, or a proportionately smaller amount for a half or two-thirds of the acreage. This immediately puts the land into public ownership for the use of the public, and insures access to the river for fishing, boating, swimming and related water activities.

The Fish Commission spends money to acquire this river access. However, it does not underwrite an expansive recreational complex. It will construct boat launching sites, sanitary facilities, and parking areas.

Having done this much, the Fish Commission requires a governing body, such as Tidioute borough council, to agree to control, operate, and maintain the area and finance such additional facilities as hiking trails, picnic tables and outdoor cooking grills, swimming beach, or whatever improvements the town or area is able and willing to provide.

Summarized briefly, the Fish Commission will buy the land, build the basic facilities, and turn it over to the town to develop, operate, and maintain. There will never be a better opportunity than this, and perhaps this is the Tidioute area's only chance to bring one dream to reality.

The initial cost of land acquisition always has been the great obstacle. If this is hurdled by the Fish Commission, it shouldn't be difficult for the borough and the townships to manage the rest.

If we don't take advantage of this opportunity, it is unlikely that the people of this area, which includes the borough and the adjacent townships, will ever be in a position to have their own community park.

Supervisors and councilmen should be urged to cooperate with the Fish Commission in obtaining this facility.

Planners Set Up Land Acquisition

Tidioute Area Regional Planning Commission passed resolutions Wednesday night in an initial effort to spur acquisition of land in Tidioute borough to be used for recreational purposes.

The planners, representing Tidioute borough and the townships of Limestone, Triumph and Deerfield, are negotiating to have the Pennsylvania Fish Commission purchase river front acreage lying between McGuire Run and the river bridge.

A Fish Commission representative, Mr. Grindell of Pleasant Gap, Pa., toured the area recently with Warren County Planning Commission director, Robert Peterson, and William Karns of the Tidioute Area Regional Planning Commission. Mr. Grindell indicated he was impressed with the potential of the land involved.

If the Fish Commission should decide to purchase the tract it would require a governing body (Tidioute council since the land is within the borough borders) to agree to assume control, operation and maintenance. The Commission, in addition to buying the land, would provide minimum facilities such as boat launch ramps, sanitary facilities, and parking area.

The Tidioute planners drafted a resolution requesting borough council to agree with the Fish Commission's requirements. Resolutions also will be forwarded to supervisors of the townships represented in the local planning commission asking them to cooperate with the borough.

The planners elected officers for the coming year. Nelson O. Horne will continue as chairman, with Howard Armour of Triumph twp. as vice chairman, and William Karns as secretary.

At the May meeting the planners will compile a list of areas where improvements are needed, both in the borough and in the townships, and where the efforts of the planners may be helpful.

Warren Author Is Club Speaker

Mrs. Marian Potter of Warren, well-known author of children's books, was guest speaker at Monday night's meeting of Tidioute Fortnightly Club. Mrs. Potter described her career as a writer and told of the trials and tribulations which she has experienced in her career.

A nominating committee was appointed to submit a slate of candidates for the annual election to be held at the next meeting. Serving on this committee are Mrs. Calvin Montgomery Sr., Mrs. Donald Dashner and Mrs. Thomas Walsh.

A new member was received into the club, Mrs. Kenneth Williams. The meeting concluded with a social hour during which refreshments were served by Mrs. Hugh McGraw, in whose home the meeting was held, assisted by other members of her committee.

Mrs. Carmon Buck will entertain the club at her home on Monday, April 17. Each member is requested to bring slides or photographs and an article for a Chinese auction.

1965: USAC-supervised tests proved that a '65 Ford rode quieter than a $17,000 Rolls-Royce.

1966: After comparison rides, owners of the world's most expensive luxury cars like Jaguar and Mercedes-Benz agreed that a '66 Ford was quieter.

1967: At the Lake Placid Olympic ski jump a '67 Ford took leap after punishing leap and rode away still quiet, still strong. Other '67 Fords went on a bone-jarring sleeeplchase ride and a gruelling trip up and down the Los Angeles Coliseum steps. The results were always the same: still quiet, still strong.

Year after year, you're ahead in a Ford -ahead in quiet, ahead in strength.

Year after year, we do things you'd never do to demonstrate Ford's quiet and strength. This year's tests were the toughest yet. But the durable Ford came through again — quiet and strong. That's because the 1967 Ford is the strongest, quietest Ford we've ever built. Over 150 important parts have been strengthened and improved. And the '67s offer plenty of convenience and luxury features too. SelectShift Cruise-O-Matic transmission that's fully automatic and fully manual. It all adds up to a pretty strong argument for saving at your Ford Dealer's now.

Quieter because it's stronger...stronger because it's better built.
